Thomasville Jurist, in Statement to Court, Denies Charge He Murdered Oscar Groover, Ex-Business Associate.

DEFENSE OFFERS NO WITNESSES

Arguments Begun Thursday Will End Today and After Judge's Charge, Jury Will Receive Case.

By BEN F. MEYER.

Associated Press Staff Correspondent.
THOMASVILLE, Ga., Oct. 25.—(AP)—
A jury tomorrow is scheduled to receive the case of Judge Roscoe Luke, former member of the Georgia court of appeals, who today from the stand denied the state's charge that he murdered Oscar Groover, his former business associate, and reported that the shooting was an accident.

Luke reiterated statements made just after the slaying that he had killed
"my best friend" and that his saved off shotgun was discharged accidentally as he was moving it from one place to another in his automobile.

He also denied contents of the state that he had committed fraud in the operation of the Citizens Building & Loan Association, of which he was president and Groover was secretary-treasurer. The state had contended it was a desire to "sell the lips" of Groover concerning affairs of the company that led to the killing.

A coroner's jury exonerated Luke, who is now judge of the city court of Thomasville, after a hearing at which he was sworn out against him charging murder.

The defense offered no testimony except Luke's statement from the stand and three hours was allotted each side for argument. Much of the time was taken up today and only concluding arguments and the charge of Judge W. E. Thomas remained tomorrow before the jury would receive the case. The trial was expected to reach that stage about noon.

Sam Cain, of Cairo, opened the arguments for the defense and said the state had shown no proof of embezzlement and that the trial was an attempt to "crucify" Luke. "Don't take this mess of insinuations, suspicions and theories and send this man from this court broken," he urged.

Ira Carlisle, of Cairo, also of the defense counsel, said "This is the greatest case of persecution I ever saw. The state has shown no evidence that anything wrong in connection with the building and loan association, and certainly has offered no evidence that the death of Groover was not accidental."

Asks Death Sentence.

George Lilly, 28, recently appointed city engineer, said Luke "had been moving the gun as he said he was, he wouldn't have shot Groover in the neck but in the body." He said he thought the state had proved murder.

CHEST CAMPAIGN $250,000 SHORT, LEADERS REPORT

Pledges of $61,002 Obtained Thursday; Workers Hope To Reach Halfway Mark Today.

Atlanta's Community Chest, fund for 1935 Thursday night stood at $151,905, a figure which is nearly $250,000 short of the goal of $400,000, as the minimum figure for supplying the needs of those that must be cared for by Chest agencies during the next year. Pledges of $61,002 were announced at Thursday's report meeting.

The final report luncheon of the week will begin at noon today in the Atlanta Athletic Club, with Preston Arkwright, a past president of the Chest, as the principal speaker.

On the basis of Thursday's reports, the campaign fund of $151,905 subscribed thus far compares with $147,192 in hand last year after the second report meeting of workers.

The final report luncheon of the week will begin at noon today in the Atlanta Athletic Club, with Preston Arkwright, a past president of the Chest, as the principal speaker.

Thursday's meeting was the second report assembly of workers, and pledges announced as having been obtained since the initial meeting Wednesday noon, compared with the status of the campaign after the second report meeting last year, were as follows:

LEGION DEMANDS EARLY PAYMENT IN CASH OF BONUS

Elects California Banker
as Chief to Further Payment as Means of National Recovery.

MELTON ELECTED VICE COMMANDER

MIAMI, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Quimby Melton, of Griffin, Ga., today was chosen as one of the American Legion's five vice commanders. The others are D. J. Doherty, of Woburn, Mass.; H. J. Warner, of Pontiac, Mich.; John Keady, of Madison, N. D.; and M. J. Warner, of Toledo, Ohio.

The Georgia editor, a member of the Legion's national executive committee, was nominated by a fellow Georgian, Delaney Allen. His nomination was seconded by Louisiana. The election of the vice commanders was made unanimous when two other nominees withdrew their names during the roll call.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The American Legion today called upon the government for immediate cash payment of the adjusted service (bonus) certificates as a "most effective means" of hastening national economic recovery.

Frank Belgrano, San Francisco banker, was chosen by the veterans as their 1935 national commander, succeeding Edward A. Hayes, of Dayton, Ill. He will direct the Legion's campaign to obtain the bonus at the next session of congress.

The senate has refused in the last two years to authorize payment of the bonus, although the house has twice voted for the measure. Because of the senate stand, administration officials in Washington believe a veto would be upheld even should the bonus be passed by congress.

Fulfillment of the convention's "recommendation" could add $200,000,000 to the federal treasury of about $2,000,000,000, but this, the Legion held "will not create an additional debt, but will discharge and relieve an acknowledged contract obligation of the government."

The convention, in its closing annual session of the sixteenth annual meeting, adopted a resolution disbursing from the federal treasury for loans already made to veterans, and a refund of collections made on this account.

This would save certificate holders an estimated $1,000,000,000 although much of this would be but a book-keeping entry.

COTTON MILL MEN UNITE ON POLICY

Northern and Southern Groups Agree on Labor Platform.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Cotton textile manufacturers of the north and south joined today in a ringing statement of employer-employee relationship and invited the other major industries of the country to follow suit.

A 10-point platform, adopted but not made public by the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association in the south a week ago, was ratified here by the eighth annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, the northern employers' organization.

Its adoption was described by Russell F. Fisher, secretary of the national association, as the first platform of principles ever reached by the two branches of the industry.

"It is a more directed," he said, "toward co-operation between employers and employees to the mutual benefit of both and to the best interests of the public."

The platform declared that neither membership nor non-membership in a labor organization "shall interfere with a man's free right to work," while another plank expressed opposition to law by "force or edict."

"The industrial codes, now law," it said, "should be changed only by the definitely prescribed and orderly procedure now available and no other method should be recognized."

McAdoo Partner Fears Senator's Daughter Wed

Absence of Ellen and Actor From Los Angeles Lends Credence To Rumor Girl Has Disregarded Disinheritance Threat.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The possibility that Ellen McAdoo, 19, had defied threats of disinheritance and possible legal action by eloping with 28-year-old Rafael Lopez, De Onate, screen actor, was intensified here tonight by William H. Nebbett, law partner of her father.

"I don't know where she is, but it seems she has made up her mind to do something foolish," Nebbett said after a visit to the girl's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo.

Neither the tall blonde debutante nor the actor could be found. At the McAdoo home it was said Miss McAdoo, a granddaughter of Woodrow Wilson and daughter of Senator William G. McAdoo, of California, had gone home about 10 p. m., presumably to keep a luncheon engagement with De Onate.

Mrs. McAdoo, 40, asserted Miss McAdoo would be cut off from her $10,000-a-year allowance and might be subject to legal action if she eloped with De Onate. Mrs. McAdoo added the couple would not apply to-morrow for a marriage license as originally planned.

Miss McAdoo herself assented to this, and Nebbett, who recently conducted an investigation to determine whether De Onate was of Filipino blood, said the marriage was "definitely off and permanently off."

Nebbett said Mrs. McAdoo, who recently divorced the senator, was "prostrate in bed as the result of this situation. She does not know where her daughter is and is in a state of mind in saying she is against this marriage and will also refuse financial support if they are married."

Has Malay Blood.
"I have done all I could to bring this girl to her senses but apparently she is going to remain obdurate. I have substantial proof that this man, although he claims pure Spanish blood, is partly of Malay extraction. Records of the state department received today tend to substantiate this. This knowledge has been brought to the attention of Ellen McAdoo but she apparently has sought to disregard it."

Before he became "missing," De Onate was not known to anyone but that he and the girl might elope to Nevada, Arizona or Baja California, Mexico.

"I still love Ellen," De Onate said, "and I believe she still loves me. Other than that I see no reason to continue in this."

CANADIAN SLAYS SIX, WOUNDS TWO Kills Five Members of Own Family and Post- office Official.

QUEBEC, Oct. 25.—(AP)—J. Rosaire Biledeau, former mail carrier who killed a postal official today as he ran amok with a pistol in the Quebec postoffice, confessed tonight he had slain five relatives earlier in the day.

Police, with the ready assistance of Biledeau, found the bodies of three of the relatives, all women.

Search was continued through the night for the bodies of two young men, cousins whom Biledeau admitted killing.

Octave Fiset, city divisional superintendent of mails.
Marie Biledeau, 63, sister of the fourth man slain, was also found.

Rosalie Biledeau, 62, another sister.
Yvette Gaudin, 21, a cousin.
Biledeau also said he had killed two other cousins, Gaston and Fernand Gaudin, 20 and 18 years old, but the youths were missing from their homes and Biledeau assured police he had killed them with the same pistol used in the murderous foray at the postoffice.

The bodies of the three women were found in a small parlor of woods near St. Therese de Beauport.
Those of the two youths lay in another part of the woods, Biledeau said. Darkness hampered the search.
O'Day, democratic candidate for police said, Biledeau came to the Quebec postoffice, out of which he worked as a carrier until he became ill some time ago.

Fiset asked to see Fiset, and was directed to the superintendent's office.
Inside were Fiset, Postmaster J. B.
L. Morin and Moise Jolicoeur, senior mail clerk. There the Republican Biledeau, without warning, pulled his pistol and began to fire rapidly.
The first shots were directed at Postmaster Morin. As he fell Jolicoeur and Fiset rushed toward Biledeau, but he continued firing and Fiset went down with a bullet in the neck and body.
Jolicoeur also was struck, but not seriously injured.

Fiset died a short time after he reached a hospital. Postmaster Morin's condition was said to be critical.

BANKERS PLEDGE AD TO NEW DEAL AS MEETING ENDS

Demand for Balanced Budget and Applause for Attack on Administration Belie Action.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—
The American Bankers' Association closed its annual convention today by issuing a pledge to co-operate with the administration and a round of ringing applause for a speech severely criticizing some of the Roosevelt policies.

At the same time, the association's formal resolutions called for a balanced budget "at the earliest possible date" and set forth a "conviction" that such action constituted "the cornerstone of sound financial policy," whether public or private.

A standing ovation greeted an address by David Lawrence, editor of the United States News, striking directly at the "brain trust," as lacking practicality, asserting the administration's creed was "to the victor belongs the spoils" and calling for a fight "back home" against encroachments upon individual liberty.

Meanwhile, the association's economic policy commission presented a report saying the biggest present banking problem was that of finding "willing borrowers." It asserted the time had arrived when "good banking must perform before courageous banking."

Hecht Ask Faith.
Rudolf S. Hecht, newly-elected president, asked the delegates, in a brief installation address, to have faith in the leadership of the president and assured the chief executive that the "banker will play his part on the alfords of heart and mind."

His reference was to Roosevelt's address of last night, calling upon all the groups of American economic life to line up together in a concerted effort to restore normal, prosperous business conditions and challenging the bankers to fulfill their responsibility for supplying the nation's credit needs.

Throughout the convention, while speakers have hammered away at Roosevelt recovery methods, the officers of the association have denied charges of non-co-operation and have worked toward a moderate, friendly tone in the formally-adopted resolutions.

Gains During Year.
The resolutions stated that the past year had seen "many constructive changes in the nation's banking structure," and asserted the bankers were
"in a position to meet the needs of the

HITLER DECLINES MUELLER'S OATH

Nazi Government Expects Soon To Withdraw From Church Affairs.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A dramatic crisis in German's bitter church controversy today brought an almost complete reversal of Hitler's attitude toward the church. Adolf Hitler, and his relationship, Ludwig Mueller, and forewarned, informed sources said,
the Nazi government's earlier withdrawal from church conflicts.

The rift between the reichsfuehrer and his one-time protector, portended in recent weeks by fast-growing hostility to Mueller's dictatorial stance. Hitler announced he would not today, nor at any time in the future, receive Mueller for the purpose of taking his oath of loyalty.

Mueller's rebuff to the leader's hand left his fate, that of his ironfisted high-hand man, Dr. August Jaeger, and that of the entire German church movement, Adolf Hitler and his relationship, Ludwig Mueller, and
forewarned, informed sources said,
the Nazi government's earlier withdrawal from church conflicts.

It had been announced that the bishops would be sworn today, while the one-time army chaplain believed almost to the last moment that Der Fuehrer would crown his meteoric rise by taking the oath of fealty from him today.

A toothache provided Hitler, at first, with an excuse to postpone the meeting, thus delaying an almost inevitable crisis, but later he let it be known the ceremony would not take place at all.

Tonight observers readily continue to believe that Hitler is not planning to exercise his functions for the time being, ultimately will be ousted, as will Jaeger and other appointees of Hitler's church movement. At active Nazi participation in church affairs will soon be at an end.

The rising tide of opposition to Mueller, holding in its surge the seeds of political catastrophe for the Nazi party, influenced Hitler to take sides against Mueller, authoritative sources said tonight.

Men as high in party ranks as Julius Streicher, of Franconia; Adolf Wagner, of Bavaria; Erich
Koch, of West Prussia, and Fritz Sauckel, of Thuringia, had brought the whole seriousness of the church conflict to Hitler's attention, arguing its great political significance.

GEORGIA ENTRIES IN BIG MOTORCADE MOUNT STEADILY

Atlanta Filling Quota of 200 Cars; More Than 500 Expected To Be in Line at Savannah.

Motorcades, experienced and new,
called in steady stream at the sixth floor of The Constitution and at the Atlanta Motor Club on West Pen-cote street on Thursday, entering their cars for the biggest and most significant motorcade ever staged within the confines of Georgia.

This is the "Four Capitals" motorcade which will leave Atlanta at 8 o'clock next Thursday morning for Savannah, traveling over the new "Four Capitals" highway and celebrating completion of the final paved link that makes this a continuous ribbon of concrete from Atlanta, present capital, through Milledgeville and Louisville, former capitals, to Savannah, first city of the commonwealth and first capital of the state of Georgia.

In addition to the local automobiles, that delegations of from two to twenty cars will join the motorcade at each place.

Atlanta to Fill Quota.
Atlanta, allotted 200 cars in the line, will fill that quota long before the hour for the motorcade start. In fact it looks now as if the 200 will be registered before the end of this week. This is in line with the desire of managers, who wish to have time next week to send out stickers, badges, numbers and other insignia and information to each registrant.

As the motorcade lengthens at each city it passes and as it is met at Statesboro by a long line of welcoming cars from Savannah, it is expected that between 400 and 500 automobiles will be in line when the parade finally rolls through Savannah's streets to the Hotel DeSoto for counter-revolutionary for the "cadres in the port city."

In addition to the cities along the route, other cities, including Athens and Milledgeville, will have their own delegations.

Firing Squad Kills 2 Soviet Officials

MOSCOW, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Two Soviet officials were shot to death by firing squads today for counter-revolutionary activities and sabotage which resulted in the destruction of state property.

They were Kokhan Nikolai, chief of the Sosnovsky grain farm and Mikhail Strebkov, president of the collective farm at that state.

Nikolai, charged with failing to dry grain and place it in the warehouses with the result that 300 tons were ruined.

The prosecutor charged Strebkov permitted horses to be neglected with the result that many of them died.
He was a former czarist officer.

A toothache provided Hitler, at
first, with an excuse to postpone the
meeting, thus delaying an almost inevitable crisis, but later he let it be known the ceremony would not take place at all.

TREATY VIOLATION ALLEGED IN NOTES RUSHED TO TOKYO

Extensive Foreign Interests in Manchurian State Imperilled by Proposal To Place Petroleum in Government Hands.

JAPAN MIGHT SEIZE SUPPLIES FOR WAR

New Law Would Require That All Alien Companies Keep 6 Months' Supply on Hand.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)— Vigorous blows were directed from Washington and London today against Japan's plan to establish strict governmental control over the oil business in that country and its sponsored empire of Manchukuo.

Great Britain followed the American representation with a protest against any Manchukuoan petroleum monopoly, it became apparent that oil—fuel for warships as well as smoothing the troubled Pacific.

The Netherlands were reported authoritatively here to have acted along similar lines. Although the representations were worded much alike, it was emphasized here that the three actions were not concerted. Both the London and Washington governments claimed a violation of the nine-power treaty.

Two Main Objections.
Joseph C. Grew, American ambasador to Tokyo, was reported today to have made a series of representations to the foreign office against the Japanese plan. He objected against two separate proposals, each of which, however, dovetails into the other.
They are:

1. Japan's petroleum industry control law, which gives the Japanese government strict control of all oil business in Japan to the detriment of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and other American oil firms.

2. Manchukuo's proposal to establish a government oil monopoly which virtually will put the Standard Oil company of New York, the Texas Company and other foreign oil companies out of business in that new Asiatic state.

Grew's representations on the Man-chukuoan oil monopoly, owned by Japan, claimed directly a violation of Section 3 of the nine-power treaty, which pledges equality of treatment for nationals of all countries in the far east. He contended the act would slam shut the traditional "open door."

Under the monopoly proposal the Manchukuoan oil monopoly, owned by Japan, would have the sole right to sell and distribute oil and petroleum in Manchukuo.

The new law in Japan would require all foreign petroleum companies to keep a six-month supply on hand in huge storage tanks. The law states that the Japanese government could confiscate this supply in case of an emergency.

Japan's action in placing the oil business under governmental control in Manchukuo, observers here as of special significance in view of the imminent possibility of a new world war.

Battle Fleet Ends Passage of Canal

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., Oct. 25.—(AP)— Arrival of the oiler Neches at Balboa this afternoon completed the United States battle fleet's transit of the Panama canal into the Pacific ocean, an emergency crossing intended to simulate war conditions.

Seventy-nine warships went through the canal in approximately 42 hours, as compared with the transit of 110 vessels in the opposite direction in 47 hours last April.

New Fast Train Reaches New York, Sets Record for Crossing Nation

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Railroad's answer to aerial and auto-motive competition reached New York after a record-breaking run across the continent today, and the ensuing excitement caused the engineer to faint.

Fifty-six hours and 55 minutes after leaving Los Angeles the Union Pacific's new streamlined train, resembling a huge yellow caterpillar, rolled into Grand Central terminal with a cluster of new speed records to its credit. The previous transcontinental record was 69 hours and 7 minutes, made 10 years ago.

Overcome by the press of welcoming crowds and the sudden easing of the nervous strain under which he had labored during the long exhibition run, H. D. Robinson, assistant motor car supervisor of the Union Pacific, fainted on the station platform. Robinson had alternated at the throttle with two other engineers during the 3,334-mile trip.

After "loafing" the sub-nosed train down the Hudson from Albany, Robinson stepped from the cab into the hot glare of arc lamps and was surrounded by well-wishers. He grinned, answered a few questions, and suddenly collapsed. Carl R. G. Ray, president of the Union Pacific, and other officials went to his aid. He was quickly revived by physicians. Robinson and his assistants, C. J. Mitchell, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Clarence Beard, of Omaha, had relieved each other at two-hour intervals.

W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific and son of the west's great railroad builder, E. H. Harriman, hailed the train's performance as meeting all expectations. The Berkshire radioed for assistance last night when she lost her propeller off the coast of Long Island.

RECOVERY SIDETRACKED FOR REFORMS—MILLS

Former Secretary Defends Hoover's Action in 'Cushioning' 1929 Crash.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration, Ogden L. Mills declared tonight, has paid more heed to reform than to recovery. Addressing the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, the secretary of the treasury in Herbert Hoover's administration, said "The administration did not directly and vigorously address itself to the task of recovery, but emphasized what are known as the reform features of the New Deal."

Mills surveyed the course of the Roosevelt recovery program since March 4, 1933, and voiced belief the administration "either underestimated the importance of certain fundamental factors in our economic system, or determined to ignore them in an attempt to supplant our existing system with one of a different character."

"How, otherwise," he asked, "can we account for the suppression of individual initiative and enterprise by continued uncertainty; the limitation of production; the elimination of competition; the discouragement of saving by the threat to security of value; the restriction on the flow of capital; the hamstringing of the price mechanism by the threat of inflation and by the arbitrary fixing of prices; and the wholesale regulation by government of all business, large and small?"

"Given these inhibitions, limitations and restrictions, our economic system cannot function."

"Isn't that what's happened?" Mills asked. The republican leader dwelt at length on the crash of five years ago and vigorously defended efforts of the Hoover administration to combat its effects.

Portraying the aftermath of the World War, Mills said "The one demonstrable fact is not the failure of our economic system by the modern world cannot stand the shock of such a war."

In the event of economic collapse, he added, "government is compelled to intervene to cushion the fall, in the first instance, and to expedite recovery, in the second."

"It fell to the lot of the republican administration to perform the first function."

"Political propaganda has painted the picture of an inert and inactive government. Nothing could be further from the truth. Immense efforts were put forth, immense sums expended to cushion the effects of the deflationary influences."

"The German moratorium, the creation of the National Credit Corporation and later the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the mobilization of private, municipal and federal resources for relief purposes"—these were some of the measures, Mills said, the Hoover administration invoked to "cushion" the fall.

GROWING WITH AMERICA FOR 75 YEARS

We, Too, Yelled, "Get a Horse!"

When the first funny-looking horseless carriages passed our stores, we had no more idea than anybody else that these ridiculous gasoline buggies would some day make the world an entirely different place.

The automobile speeded up living all over the United States. It changed tiresome journeys into pleasant jaunts. People in scattered sections of the nation saw what the rest of the nation was eating, and locally-raised foods became popular in every state.

The work of buying food in each individual state and distributing it all over the nation had to be done. It became essential that some organization like A&P do this work cheaply.

A costly system would have confined the sale of local products to local markets. The automobile, born in the 90's, made such an organization as A&P more necessary than ever before. The developments during the last 75 years in America have made the A&P of today an essential part of modern life.

PRECINCT MANAGER ISSUES STATEMENT

F. O. Watkins Denies Irregularities in Counting Primary Ballots.

There was no irregularity in counting the ballots in the recent democratic primary in DeKalb county, according to a statement Thursday by F. O. Watkins, manager of the DeKalb courthouse precinct polling place. All requirements of the primary law were observed, Mr. Watkins said, and "in justice to the managers and clerks of the election and in justice to democracy itself, Paul Lindsey is the real nominee for representative from DeKalb county."

Mr. Watkins, in his statement, reviewed the law dealing with conduct of the primary at length, arguing that the practice of starting to count the ballots before the polls close, an irregularity charged by Garland, is fully in accord with the law.

Mr. Watkins also stated that a recount was made, on his own request, and that the result was the same as the original first count. He said that while the managers and clerks hold

Bandit Refunds 'Profits' To Atlanta Victims

A bandit who robs only to carry the overhead and refunds potential profits to his victims was revealed to police Thursday night by J. W. Russell, of 912 Washington street, who reported to police that a lone, white, armed gunman held him up at the corner of Washington and Hatcher streets and took five of his $11.

"The bandit held a gun on me and told me he had just been released from the chain gang and needed $5 badly. I had $11 in cash and a good watch, which I handed over to him," Russell said. He took $5 and handed the remaining $6 and watch back to me with thanks."

they were not irregular but, for the sake of argument, if they were unwittingly irregular, this recount settles the question, citing that section of the law that provides, "If the result is the same as if no irregularity had occurred, the election is not void."

He also charged that the same practice of early counting of votes prevailed in other precincts where Garland received a majority and, if the courthouse votes are discarded, these other should, in all justice, be discarded too, which would still leave "Lindsey the nominee by a larger majority than ever."

LaGuardia Vetoes Bill To Establish Lottery

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. (AP)—Mayor Fiorella H. LaGuardia vetoed today a bill which caused more uproar in New York than any other municipal proposal in years—the measure providing for a city lottery.

His objections to such a scheme for raising funds for unemployment relief were the lawyer's objections and not those of the city clergymen.

Without discussing normal grounds, the mayor vetoed the bill because he doubted the legality of such a proposal.

"The resolution and the plan," he wrote to the board of aldermen, "were offered in the best of good faith."

"In times as critical as we are now living in, every possible method of raising revenue is thought and suggested. But the mayor has been unable to obtain any reliable legal advice that sustains the legality of the plan."

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter:

"Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic."

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Eats" of First Importance on Halloween

"At Halloween when witches fly And goblins roam about— The night of October 31 is not very far off, so for those that are planning on having guests for dinner that night, I am giving a Halloween dinner menu:

French Loin of Pork
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Spinach Ring
Carrot and Celery Salad
Pumpkin Pie

The loin of pork is a favorite meat for company meals, but when it is Frenched, it is doubly so. Frenching merely means removing the meat from the ends of the rib bones, thus after the loin is roasted, those rib ends may be decorated with paper frills to give the whole dish a festive appearance, and incidentally to aid the carver, for the paper frills slipped over rib ends make an excellent handle.

To roast the Frenched loin of pork, season it with salt and pepper, and place in an open roasting pan. The unprotected rib ends should be placed

Roosevelt's Town House In New York for Rent

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—For Rent: President Roosevelt's town house.

A sign, freshly coated with cream-colored paint and lettered in bright ultramarine, hangs to the right of the arched doorway at 47-49 East Sixty-fifth street, proclaiming that fact.

The house has been on the market, it was learned, virtually since Mr. Roosevelt's election to the presidency. It is owned by his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, and has been used by the Roosevelts since 1926.

PAGE TO ENTER SUIT FOR FOOTBALL TAXES

Immediate Action Against Bank Holding Funds Will Be Taken.

Refusal of Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia to file tax returns for this year's football games and the subsequent refusal of three Georgia banks to deliver funds of the two schools to the collector, has led W. E. Page, collector of internal revenue, to file papers with the United States district attorney's office for immediate suit against the offending banks.

The Citizens & Southern National bank at Athens and the Trust Company of Georgia are handling funds for the University of Georgia and the Georgia Tech funds are on deposit at the Peachtree and North avenue branch of the First National bank of Atlanta. The suits brought about by the refusal of these banks to relinquish funds of the schools shifts the liability to the banks, Mr. Page stated.

An attempt to levy on the funds of the Georgia Tech Athletic Association was temporarily blocked when Dr. M. L. Brittain, president, refused to be served.

Collection of taxes from the two schools on receipts from athletic events of last year was temporarily restrained by federal court injunction, pending a hearing against Georgia Tech in Atlanta. The date for the hearing has not yet been set.

In the injunction, it was set forth that the government had a right to collect taxes because the school is a government institution, and as such is not taxable. Mr. Page declares, however, that since the injunction was granted the athletic association has been made a separate corporation, liable to taxation.

U. S. Moves to Purchase 18,977 Acres in Georgia

Condemnation of 18,977 acres of Georgia land was asked in a petition filed Wednesday afternoon in the office of the clerk of the federal court by United States Attorney Lawrence Camp.

The land, lying in Fannin, Gilmer, Murray, and Dawson counties, was found by the department of agriculture to be necessary to government activities in preserving the navigability of streams in the Savannah area.

Judge E. Marvin Underwood signed the petition, which named the Shippen Hardwood Lumber Company as any some 300 others as defendants.

Humanness of Newspaper Makes Medium Good for Advertising

Newspapers are the most human things in the world and their humanness is the quality that makes them a good advertising medium, Henry T. McIntosh, publisher of the Albany Herald, told members of the Atlanta Club at their regular weekly luncheon Thursday at the Capital City Club.

Mr. McIntosh pointed out that newspapers were made by the men and women who worked on them and that they were read by men, women and children because of the humanness they portrayed. The more human a newspaper is the more interesting it is, he said, and that is why newspaper publishers strive for the human element in their publications.

The news is made by thousands of people, Mr. McIntosh pointed out, and hundreds of people are engaged in assembling and disseminating it so the rest of the world may know about it. And the rest of the world is intensely eager for it, he added.

As proof that people are eager for their newspapers, Mr. McIntosh related a number of interesting instances in his own experience where subscribers failed to get their papers or the papers were late in arriving. Invariably, he said, it brought a "kick" from the subscriber, and this he considered a tribute to the newspaper.

Mr. McIntosh said that at the time daily publication of a newspaper started in Albany, it was the smallest town in the world having a daily paper. He told of his father trying to get an Associated Press franchise and after being "laughed at" having made arrangements with Julian Harris to give them the foreign news in three five-minute periods every night over the telephone.

"It was surprising how I could take this and make it into enough items to spread all over the front page," Mr. McIntosh admitted.

Announcement was made by Oscar Strauss Jr., president of the club, of the appointment of R. H. Martin Jr. as vice president to fill out the unexpired term of Russell Fay, who resigned because of his removal from Atlanta to Kansas City.

Fire Destroys House And Tennessee's $800

BELL, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(P)—Eight hundred dollars in bills, packed in an old trunk in the attic of the home of Mrs. H. B. Reams, were lost when the house was destroyed by fire Tuesday.

The money belonged to a son, G. C. Reams, who lost considerable money when a bank in a neighboring city closed about two years ago.

SECURITY DEMANDED FOR AUDITORIUM LOAN

Three ways Atlanta may borrow money from the government to build a $1,000,000 new city auditorium were described Thursday by Ed A. Gilliam, alderman, following his return from Washington, D. C.

The people of Atlanta will have to put up security in order to obtain a federal loan, he said. "The government will not give the money for the new auditorium."

Loans may be secured by putting up general obligation bonds, refunding bonds, or by giving the government a lien against the auditorium building. In the last case, the loan would be repaid by the revenue of rentals, Gilliam, who conferred with Mayor Key, said the matter would probably be brought up at the next session of council.

The Central Improvement Association Thursday objected to a new auditorium and proposed to improve the old auditorium and "thus save the taxpayers money."

The association pointed out that many garages are located near the present building, which is only a few minutes' walk from the heart of the city. Business in that section would suffer should the new building be erected somewhere else, it was said.

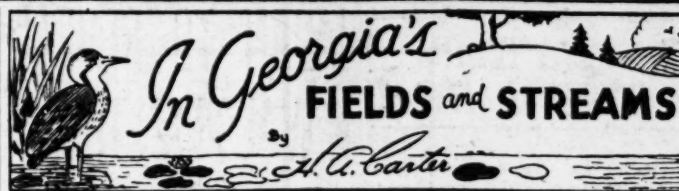

The association advocated spending "several hundred thousand dollars" repairing and modernizing the present structure. W. Brown Hayes heads the organization.

No Money for Dry.

THE DOVES.

Here, friends is where the conservationist in me boils over. To shoot doves in September when they are still breeding, when young birds can be found starved in the nest because some hunter killed the parents, is nothing short of a crime. I realize that the federal law permits it, but that is one law that I consistently fail to understand.

It is true that the doves seem to be standing it all right, as one hunter pointed out to me. On the other hand, I have had not less than 30 point out that over a period of 10 years, there is actually a decrease in doves. I don't know. But to be logical about it, to shoot a brooding bird is to kill not one, but the number of young in the nest as well.

Now long would you be able to raise poultry, for instance, if you stood in the farm yard and shot the hens on the nest. Oh, don't let's quibble. Nobody ever accused you of shooting a dove on the nest, but hens are not successful fliers. It would take you just a few minutes to get definite about the poultry business if you followed this practice. How long do you think your dove supply is going to last? Remember the passenger pigeon and be wise! They were once more abundant than our mourning doves have ever thought of being.

There was a hunter who called me up the other day and told me of a peculiar dove he had shot. It was colored, he said, like no other dove ever saw. He was worried for fear he had killed a species that is protected. Its measurements, according to Greene, checked for the mourning dove, but the color was off. Dr. Oberholser, of the biological survey, decided that it was a partial albino mourning dove. The specimen is being preserved in the collections of the Georgia Society of Naturalists.

There is another little dove on the coast that is almost exactly like the mourning dove in color. It is called the ground dove, and measures almost seven inches, where the mourning dove is nearly 12 inches in length. I have never had any field experience with these diminutive birds, but I am glad they are not on the game bird list. As it is, I am not comfortably certain that some pot hunter is not shooting them regularly. I should like to have my way with such a hunter for just about five minutes. Maybe less. Five would be sufficient, however.

We must use our heads about the game birds we have or we won't have 'em.

Roosevelt Plans To Check Bonus

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(P)—The administration spurred detailed plans today to resist a drive for cash payment of the soldiers' bonus that is sure to mark the coming session of congress.

At the White House there was no comment forthcoming on the American Legion's vote for the bonus today but it was recalled that President Roosevelt spoke in unambiguous terms against immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates in dedicating a veterans' hospital at Roanoke, Va., last week.

Preparing to attack the veterans' administration put together an estimate that it would cost $2,500,000,000 to meet the Legion's demand.

Veto Assured.

That the president would veto an immediate cash payment bill is certain. When the issue was before congress last spring, the chief executive sent word to democratic leaders that he would use his veto power if it reached the White House. Although it passed the house, the bonus bill died in the senate.

Many observers here believe the action of the Legion in demanding not only cash payment but cancellation of interest on loans made on the certificates enhances the possibility that congress will approve the proposal. Virtually all felt, however, that in the event of a veto, the senate, if not the house, would sustain the president's position. It required a two-thirds majority to override a presidential veto.

MITCHELL GIVEN LIFE IN AMBUSH SLAYING

Buena Vista Jury Convicts Neighbor of Farmer Killed in Field.

BUENA VISTA, Ga., Oct. 25.—(AP) A Marion county superior court jury today found W. F. Mitchell guilty of the ambush slaying of his neighbor, Burdell Thompson, and Judge C. Frank McLaughlin sentenced him to life imprisonment. The jury recommended mercy to the court.

Mitchell told the judge, upon being sentenced, that he was not guilty and wanted a new trial. The jury deliberated a little more than three hours.

Four persons testified at the trial that Thompson said Mitchell shot him. The Marion county farmer was fatally wounded as he picked cotton in a field near his home September 10, his assailant firing from a clump of bushes.

Italy's Cabinet Members Must Do Guard Duty

ROME, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini took another step today to let his cabinet ministers and other high officials know their jobs do not consist in simply wielding pens.

Members of the government and the grand council of fascists were ordered to do guard duty at the national fascist exposition Sunday, just before its close after two years of existence.

The guards will march to the exposition building in uniform and stand holding a rifle, with bayonet attached, at the portals until their trick is over.

Church Faces Crisis, Says Dr. Ainsworth

ROME, Ga., Oct. 25.—The Christian church has "never been confronted by such a challenge in all the centuries of its existence as it does today," Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of Macon, told Methodists from the Rome and Dalton districts meeting at the First Methodist church tonight, in an address in which he urged the return of evangelical religion.

Vigorously denouncing liquor and other interests which he said "are seeking financial gain at the expense of the moral degeneration of the nation," he declared "nothing can be economically sound and at the same time morally corrupt."

Bishop Ainsworth's visit here was for the purpose of conferring with church leaders on matters to come before the conference in Atlanta. This is a new democratic idea, which is somewhat of an innovation in conference procedure, church leaders say.

Bishop Ainsworth was the guest at a dinner given by a group of ministers at Hotel General Forrest at 6 p. m.

Methodists from both the Rome and Dalton districts attended the rally at the First Methodist church.

der and if the jury agreed it should impose the death sentence.

W. V. Alexander, of Thomasville, special prosecutor, said "If there is one thing of which this case has convinced me it is that security bought by human life is like a house built on sand—it cannot stand."

Scott Russell, of Macon, special prosecutor, will complete the arguments for the state tomorrow and Lee Branch, of Quitman, will conclude for the defense, which gets the last argument since it did not call any witnesses.

Prior to starting the arguments the state decided not to again attempt to introduce the contested testimony of Mrs. Groover about conversation with her husband when he is purported to have said he wouldn't "touch" the books of the building and loan association after he had quit to enter the employ of the government.

Judge Luke began his unsworn statement by detailing the history of the loan association. So much had been said about it in the trial, Luke said, he felt he should make a statement.

The association operated about eight years and "Mr. Groover and I both were associated with it all these years," Luke said.

"Somebody had to keep the records and Mr. Groover did that. Up until 1933 I was in and out of Thomasville and I gave the association supervision as possible," adding that he had "never uttered a word of reflection on anybody."

"Times got mighty tight," Judge Luke continued. "Banks over the country began closing. A lot of people put money into the association with the idea of getting it out if it was not out on loan."

Refers to Funds.

Commenting on state testimony that he, members of his family and firms with which he was connected received $277,000 in five years from the association, Judge Luke said "as far as payments to me in past years, I do not know in detail."

The judge continuing said, when the association lost money and got into difficulties, "needless to say I lost a lot of money."

"We tried to do the best we could," he added, "paying all depositors alike."

Referring to testimony by a previous witness, Judge Luke said A. J. McMat's "was mistaken about seeing a gun in my car at Mr. Groover's house. It was not there because it was in a desk at the building and loan office. Before this horrible occurrence—"

Here he lost composure but continued after a moment, "Mr. Groover and I stopped at a filling station and got gas. We stepped out of the car and a colored man there swept out the car. He saw no gun on the floor of the car because there was none."

Touching on the receiver's testimony that the association had 36 cents when he took over its affairs May 10, the witness said: "To those who are trying to take a man's life this would seem to appear as if something had been done with the association's money. Why, gentlemen, the very day before the receivership we paid out more than $1,000 and had government certificates which would enable us to pay more in a few days."

Audit Requested.

He declared that a request was made for Mr. Lewis Wilson to audit the books in January and added, "You heard Mr. Wilson say yesterday that entries I made on the books should have been made."

Judge Luke declared emphatically he bore no ill will toward Groover or any member of the family. Turning back to the afternoon Groover was killed, Judge Luke continued: "After we filled the car with gas, we drove around awhile and Oscar said, 'Let's go by the office. I want to get some rulers.' We drove there, spoke several people. We were not on bad terms. We talked to Shelby Davis about how we could help Oscar's boy who had left that afternoon to take a newspaper job in Marietta."

Opening a desk drawer in the office, Judge Luke said Groover noticed his short double-barreled gun and mentioned it to Luke. "Yes," Luke said he replied, "I guess I had better take it home." It was placed on the seat of the car by Groover, Judge Luke said, when they left the office.

As they prepared to drive away, Judge Luke went on, "I pulled the door open, stepped on the running board to get in and saw the gun. I picked it up. I don't know whether with my right hand or my left hand. I picked it up to lay it in the back of the seat without any intention. The gun went off and—and my best friend was killed."

"I don't think anybody will believe that gun was fired intentionally. Guns go off sometimes, gentlemen. You recall the witness this morning who said a gun went off in the hands of the sheriff, himself and nearly shot the witness. I am not guilty. I am no defaulter. Mr. Wilson said every entry I made on the books should have been there."

Judge Luke was charged with murder in a warrant sworn out by H. F. Groover, brother of the dead man after a coroner's jury had exonerated the jurist in the shooting.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Oct. 25.—(UP)—The board of directors of the Sowega Fertilizer Association, an affiliate of the Sowega Melon Association, has ordered the erection of a fertilizer factory.

The plant will have a capacity at first of 10 tons of fertilizer a hour, but the building will be so constructed that the capacity may be doubled with very little extra cost. A meeting of the stockholders is being held this month to amend the constitution and the by-laws of the association to permit construction and operation of the factory.

Messenger Boy Hurt.

Rex Daugherty, 20, messenger boy who received a fractured leg when knocked from his bicycle Wednesday at West Peachtree and Fourteenth streets by an automobile driven by Mrs. May Painter, of an Eleventh street address, was taken to the "good" condition Thursday at Atlanta hospital, where he was taken by Mrs. Painter. No case was made against Mrs. Painter.

ATLANTA'S GASOLINE REMAINS AT 16 CENTS

Atlanta gasoline prices today will remain at 16 cents a gallon at filling stations of the larger oil companies and at independent stations. This retail price, 6 cents below what the motor fuel cost one week ago, has been in force for three weeks, the lowest point to which the "war" between the big companies and the independents has forced the price locally.

Reports of a price increase, however, another focal point of the "war," Thursday stated the price there was 4 cents a gallon plus tax. This compares with 12 cents a gallon in Atlanta, where there is a 1-cent tax on gasoline.

It also was reported from Tulsa, Okla., that two of the smaller producing companies there have dropped the price of crude oil to 54 cents a barrel.

RAIL EVALUATION CASE IS DELAYED 30 DAYS

Hearing in federal court on the evaluation case of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad by three-judge bench was adjourned Thursday when the court allowed counsel 30 days for filing of briefs.

The case concerns the evaluation of the road and its equipment.

Presiding at the hearing were District Judge E. Marvin Underwood, circuit Judge Samuel H. Sibley, and District Judge William I. Grubb, of Birmingham.

This is the fourth hearing on this case, which has been in litigation since 1927. The court action is the result of an inability of the interstate commerce commission and counsel for the railroad to agree on an evaluation of the latter's property.

YOUTH, 19, CAPTURED AFTER FLEEING COURT

A few minutes after he had been sentenced to serve 3 to 5 years in the chain gang, Forrest Turner, 19, gave deputy sheriffs a chase Thursday when he made a dash from the courthouse while being conducted to the detention room.

Turner made his escape while deputy sheriffs were unlocking the detention room door, and ran from the rear entrance of the courthouse. He was captured at Hunter street and Central avenue when Joe Harper, deputy sheriff, who, with E. L. Rhodes, had taken up the pursuit, threatened to shoot him.

Turner, with Vincent Baker, was found guilty of the larceny of an automobile from R. R. Glass, of Fort McPherson. Both received the same sentence.

JAPAN TO REVEAL NAVAL PLAN TODAY

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Secret close-guarded details of Japan's new plan for naval limitation will be revealed to Great Britain's representatives tomorrow.

The decision to lay bare the technical parts of the Japanese scheme, general bases of which are equality of defensive armaments "in principle" and limitation of ships of war on the total tonnage basis instead of by categories, came after Great Britain and the United States jointly requested full information.

Delegates of the two powers engaged in tripartite conversations here, though cool to the equality principle as outlined by Ambassador Tsubono Matsuda and Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, of Japan, wanted to see the complete details of Nippon's plan before accepting or rejecting it.

The Japanese, it is understood, will suggest:

1. A definite figure for maximum tonnage level which they want to substitute for the ratio system.

2. A specific cut in offensive type ships such as battleships and aircraft carriers.

3. A provision that small cruisers be the largest ships to be built in the future.

4. A gun calibre limited to eight inches.

5. Acceptance of the Japanese case for unlimited building, within maximum tonnage limits, of submarines and other ships they consider defensive in nature.

They will also explain their views on the classification of offensive and defensive ships. The point observers believe most likely to start controversy because British and Americans differ with the Japanese and between themselves as to just what offensive weapons are.

Americans Cool.

Japan's demand for scrapping of the Washington and London naval treaties with the 5-5-3 ratio embodied in the former, has stirred little enthusiasm among the Americans, Norman H. Davis and Admiral William D. Stansel, among the British, headed by Premier Ramsay MacDonald.

They maintain that the existing agreements adequately contained the "security" urged by Japan, and see no reason for drafting new pacts.

Davis and MacDonald met secretly today and it was learned, agreed that the general outline of the proposals already submitted by Matsudaira and Yamamoto was too vague to be acceptable.

Action of the two delegations in asking further details was taken as a means to hasten early joint discussion as to the possibility of reaching an agreement.

Stansel, however, among the British, said that the Japanese proposals result in lengthy, involved controversies.

FRANCE TO BUILD THREE HUGE CRUISERS

PARIS, Oct. 25.—(UP)—High officials in the French navy are studying plans for three huge cruisers, raising up to 30,000 tons, it was learned reliably tonight.

Order for construction was expected shortly, despite efforts among the three major sea powers—Great Britain, the United States and Japan—to limit naval armaments.

France's activity in naval building has been inspired by word that Italy this week began actual work on two super-warships of 35,000 tons each, to be the fastest and most up-to-date of the modern cruisers. The Italian ships are permitted under the Washington treaty of 1922, Rome so far having failed to take advantage of the tonnage in capital ships permitted her under that pact—a pact Japan seeks to scrap.

BOYKIN URGES SOUTH TO JOIN 'RED' FIGHT

Adoption of Anti-Communist Law by Various States Recommended.

Heretofore confining activities in combating alleged communistic movements to Fulton county, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin announced Thursday that he is urging adoption of his model "anti-red" law in all southeastern states.

Boykin said that he has forwarded copies of his proposed law to many prosecutors in the south and has been assured of cooperation in procuring passage of such a measure by various state legislatures. He also has written to Cordell Hull, secretary of state, asking for any information in the government's possession relative to communistic agitation in the south.

Fraternities, commercial bodies and civic organizations throughout the southeast also are being solicited to join in the fight, it was said. The proposed new measure, Boykin said, will make it possible to prevent offenses under its provision, rather than punish after commission of a crime. The bill provides punishment for mere possession of insurrectionary literature, whereas it is now necessary to prove circulation of such matter in order to obtain a conviction. The death penalty is retained in the bill, where death occurs as a result of the violence incited. Other punishment is from 5 to 20 years.

Continuing the probe Thursday, the Fulton grand jury heard about 100 negro witnesses summoned as a result of recent seizures of meeting records.

BIDDING IS HIGH, RECEIPTS INCREASE AT "OLD HOSS SALE"

Receipts for the 1934 annual "old hoss sale," held Wednesday in the basement of the new federal annex, show a marked increase over the past several years, according to M. C. Johnson, superintendent of finance of the postoffice department.

Last year's auction of unclaimed articles brought a total of $1,770.50, while the sales this year amounted to approximately $2,100. Not only was the total amount greater this year, but the bidding was unusually high, according to reports.

L. E. Livingston, acting postmaster, declared that the "old hoss sale" is a "pretty good gauge of economic conditions in and around Atlanta," and that the high bidding this year is an encouraging sign.

Mr. Johnson explained that the auction sale is timed so as to take place when the farmers of this section will have money, so that they may benefit by the sale. Mr. Johnson also disclosed that a number of merchants in outlying sections always participate in the auction, and that two merchants from Westminster, S. C., make an annual trip to Atlanta to bid on the unclaimed articles.

HOUSING DRIVE HERE GAINING MOMENTUM

Under the leadership of Charles N. Walker, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Atlanta better housing campaign, the story of the drive to acquire through repairs and modernization of properties of all types is being told Atlanta club members, on the radio, and through rallies.

Prominent Atlantians, including Joe Berman, city councilman; R. L.

CHARLES H. WALKER.

Ramsey, Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association; John Milsap, regional director of the federal housing administration; Eugene Black, governor of the Federal Reserve bank; Charles N. Walker, Raymond Kline, of Davidson-Taxon; Louis Newton, W. A. Simon and Mrs. Alva Maxwell will be heard over the local radio stations. The purpose of the speakers' bureau is to educate Atlanta property owners and to give data regarding money available under the government-insured housing loans.

"Great interest has been evidenced by property owners and the advantages presented by the federal housing act," Mr. Walker said Thursday. "Citizens of Atlanta have become conscious of the deterioration of property which has set in during the five-year depression period."

are endeavoring, through speeches to many gatherings of Atlanta property owners, to point out the necessity of keeping real property in repair. "Nothing," he continued, "is more rapidly as real property once it is allowed to lapse into a state of disrepair. Atlanta is famous as a city of homes and we are endeavoring to see that our city continues to be a city of homes for many years to come."

A co-operative attitude on the part of Atlanta bankers toward the modernization program was indicated at a meeting of bankers here Thursday.

Attending the meeting were E. H. Dickson, L. L. Gellerstedt, A. H. Stevens, H. O. Thornton, George Winship and Smith Witham.

A consensus of opinion among the officials was that the banks are willing and anxious to make loans with the regulations laid down by the government.

At the present time, according to a statement of one of the bankers at the meeting, an Atlanta banking institution has made close to $100,000 in modernization loans. It is estimated that other institutions are making loans with similar frequency.

Two Persons Injured In Traffic Accidents

Fear that his 3-year-old daughter in joyous excitement of greeting him would step off the curb and be dashed beneath the wheels of the automobile, William Pittman, of 104 Georgia avenue, was knocked down and injured when struck by an automobile after he had alighted from a street car near his home.

He told Grady hospital policeman H. C. Miller that he saw his daughter, Doris, standing on the curb, waving at him as he got off the street car. She was excited and he feared that she would step off the curb and be hit by the steady stream of traffic. Unmindful of his own safety, he said that he ran around the rear of the street car and was struck by an automobile driven by H. G. Farmer, of 800 Foster street.

S. W. Farmer took him to the hospital, where he was treated for a scalp injury. No case was made against Farmer at Pittman's request. Attempting to dodge one oncoming automobile, J. D. Freirell, of an Ashby street address, late Thursday afternoon, ran into the side of an automobile operated by L. D. Johns, nephew of 26 Broadway avenue, and was admitted to Grady hospital with a compound fracture of the right leg.

The accident happened at Ashby street near Ogletree street. Freirell was driving a 1932 Buick when he was struck by a 1934 Buick driven by Johns and was injured.

A technical case of reckless driving was made against Johns and bond was set at $200.

those residents of Atlanta and Fulton and DeKalb county working for the smaller businesses and those contacted at their homes; and more are some 2,000 prospect cards to be handled by the advance gifts division, comprising the larger gifts to the Chest.

The groups division, which was the statement at Thursday's luncheon of Charles J. Currie, chairman of a team working in the advance gifts division, has secured approximately 400 cards to work; that he and his co-workers already had interviewed 200 of this number. To date this group has obtained eight new gifts to the Chest and only one man has refused to subscribe.

Pledges Announced.
The pledges announced Tuesday from the advance gifts division were apportioned as follows, under the four chairmen:

R. F. Maddox, $24,100, to date, $7,520; Milton Bell, $5,100, to date, $1,233; J. Currie, $5,200, to date, $8,450; Mrs. D. S. McClain, $4,280, to date, $14,457.

Reporting $1,171 to date, H. M. Powell, chairman of the committee contacting branch houses, has secured about 65 per cent of his quota.

The advance gifts committee, with a total of $36,400, is nearing the half-way mark on its quota.

The groups division, with $27,056 through Thursday's report, has about 25 per cent of its quota in hand.

The individuals division has not yet secured quite half of its quota.

Red Feathers Awarded.
Red feathers, signifying that a unit had reached its quota, went Thursday to Mrs. Lewis Dugger, a colonel in the women's division. Her territory is district No. 7, the Kirkwood, East Atlanta, East Lake and Lakewood areas. Mrs. L. E. Mansfield, a major in this division, was also called to the platform, given a feather and commended for her work in going more than 50 per cent above her quota. Another red feather went to a second major in this district, Mrs. C. A. Virgin, of Kirkwood, for obtaining her quota. A red feather also will be awarded Mrs. V. W. Thompson, of East Atlanta, whose report through Thursday's luncheon showed that her unit had exactly equalled its quota. She was not present at Thursday's report meeting.

Dr. Ellis A. Fuller Speaks.
Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, who was the principal speaker at Thursday's luncheon, urged the workers to "complete the task by following through until the last man has been given an opportunity to contribute."

"We shall not be retarded by little discouragements," he said, "let's go forward with our eyes on a definite objective and get a report on every man and every woman on every list."

"I wonder if you workers realize the greatness of the task you are performing? You volunteers form a great army which, with concerted and co-operative effort, is carrying on a humanitarian program to relieve human suffering."

"You are doing a great service to the people you are soliciting," Dr. Fuller continued. "Civilization could not go on if we became callous toward the unfortunate. There is a need in his own soul met when a man expresses love for the human race by giving."

The Community Chest, to my mind, is a translation of the spirit of humanity. Atlanta can and ought to give and Atlanta will give."

The colored division, which the Rev. J. Raymond Henderson is chairman, reported $915 subscribed at a meeting held Wednesday night.

$10,315 OWED CITY BY BOND MAKERS

Immediate collection of $10,315 owed the city by professional bondsmen was advocated Thursday by Mayor James L. Key after an auditor's report of the police department revealed "unsatisfactory conditions" relating to the bonding system, and recommended that changes be made.

The audit showed that professional bondsmen did not pay a cent on forfeited bonds from August, 1932, until September 27, 1934, when only $400 was paid the city.

The report was filed Thursday with Mayor Key and Comptroller B. Graham West and it indicated that recommendations made by the auditors will come up for discussion at the next council session.

In brief, the audit revealed that the firms of Garner & Bentley, Mobley & Lunsford, and E. R. Stokes own real estate valued at $42,175 while the three companies owe the city $10,315 and the county $22,500 on tried and untried cases on forfeited bonds.

Debt to County Small.
However, county officials said the bondsmen did not owe Fulton any, where near $22,500. H. T. Goughly, bonding attorney, asserted that at the most the debt of professional bondsmen to the county would not total more than a few hundred dollars. The audit company's record were said to have been compiled from figures gathered by police department officials from the bonding clerk of Fulton county.

At the time the audit was made the three firms were security for $282,730 on bonds signed by them in city, county and federal courts. "From the foregoing it is evident that matters relating to professional bondsmen are most unsatisfactory and are causing loss to the city," the report of the Audit Company of the South read.

Trust Fund Recommended.
It was recommended that a measure which provides that, after proper licensing, bondsmen be required to put up $5,000 as a trust fund which would not be allowed to fall below $4,000, be passed by council. In this case, bondsmen would be forced to put up additional cash when the fund fell to $4,000, the amount of which would be allowed to fall below $4,000, he passed by council. In this case, bondsmen would be forced to put up additional cash when the fund fell to $4,000, the amount of which would be allowed to fall below $4,000, he passed by council.

Mayor Key said that the money owed the city by the bondsmen should be paid at once. John Cone, recorder, asserted that the forfeited bond records have been kept by the police department for the last several years and not in the recorder's files.

Cone said that he could not issue collection orders against the bondsmen until the bonds and records for forfeitures were returned to the recorder's files by the police department.

The audit also showed that professional bondsmen have not, in frequent instances, complied with the law in correctly listing their assets which they pledged as security.

why not reason out the cause of this unnatural condition?

Your first thought may be, "I must eat more." That's not all. You should enjoy what you do eat. Frequently, the blood cells are low, and this, perhaps, is what makes you feel weak. If this is your trouble the stomach may not be calling for sufficient food. Zest to eat may be lacking. But what a difference S.S.S. makes when taken just before meals. Just try it and notice how your appetite and digestion improve.

S.S.S. stimulates the flow of gastric juices and also supplies the precious mineral elements so necessary in blood-cell and hemo-globin up-building. Do try it. It may be the rainbow you need to brush away present discouragement over your health condition.

ATLANTA, GA., OCT. 26, 1934.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

In his address before the American Bankers' Association, President Roosevelt strikes a clear note of optimism and confidence in reviewing the various steps that have been taken to bring security to finance and renewed profits to business.

Holding that "it is not in the spirit of partisans, but partners, that America has progressed," the president expresses the opinion that—

The time is ripe for an alliance of all forces intent upon the business of recovery. In such an alliance will be found business and banking, agriculture and industry, and labor and capital. What an All-American team that is! The possibilities of such a team kindle the imagination—they encourage our determination—they make easier the tasks of those in your government who are leading it.

The president's answer to the demand voiced by many bankers for stabilization of the currency and the removal of government from business, is a challenge to the bankers to relieve the government of necessity of financing the recovery of business. He reminds the bankers that "in March, 1933, I asked the people of the country to renew their confidence in the banks. They took me at my word. Tonight I ask the bankers of this country to renew their confidence in the people of this country."

There probably will be dissatisfaction among the bankers who have been clamorous for a definite stabilization statement from the president over his failure to make such a statement in his address Wednesday night, but the great majority of our bankers, and the public generally, will realize the soundness of his position that the recovery program has not yet entirely emerged from its experimental phase. Rather, the president impresses, business and finance must be further strengthened and have the continued support of the government until basic conditions become steadier. In stressing his conviction that this is still the wise course to pursue, he says:

Just as it is to be expected that the banks will resume their responsibility and take up the burden that the government has assumed through credit agencies, so I assume and expect that private business generally will be financed by the great credit resources which the present liquidity of banks makes possible. Our traditional system has been built upon this principle and the recovery of our economic life should be accomplished through the assumption of this responsibility.

In putting it squarely up to the banks to supply the credit needed by business, President Roosevelt reminds the financial leaders of the country that "the present security of our banks bears witness to the wise course that we pursued." Without saying so in so many words, he lets the bankers who are dissatisfied with the administration's policies know that he will not be stampeded into action he does not believe will be the best in the long run.

It must be borne in mind that the attacks on the administration's currency and financial policies by no means represent the united opinion of the bankers of the country, nor is the failure of bankers to supply needed credit to business—a condition to which President Roosevelt has made several references recently—typical of a majority of the bankers of the country.

The banks of Atlanta, for illustration, have evidenced an earnest desire to supply local industry and business with the necessary financial means to permit the maximum improvement in economic conditions. The local banks have gone so far as to advertise their willingness to help sound businesses expand along safe and sound lines, and this co-operation in the recovery program has been largely responsible for the steady progress of Atlanta business toward more normal conditions.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Alexander of Yugoslavia.

The King of Yugoslavia lived in constant dread of assassination. This everybody in the newspaper game in Europe knew, and if it was not known, Louis Adamic made it quite clear in his book, "The Native's Return."

Once in a while Alexander would suddenly appear on the main street of Belgrade to show that he was not afraid, but it was no secret to the inhabitants that, literally thousands of secret service men were sent out ahead of the king to mix with the crowd and keep an eye on things.

The strength of King Alexander's personal bodyguard was 40,000 men. No Roman Caesar ever had such a crowd around him. The Croat terrorist organization, which had sworn the death of Alexander years ago, therefore had no chance to carry out its design in Yugoslavia proper. But once the king set foot on foreign soil he was lost and he seems to have had a premonition of it the moment he set foot ashore in Marseilles. For he knew he would be shot, and he was not at all sure that he would be able to escape when he saw a crowd of people so near by.

Alexander died in the tradition of Serbian politics. His family came to the throne through assassination, the king, Draga, in 1903.

King Alexander's Death.

In Paris lives a little woman, 80 years of age, who comes to our house occasionally to ask alms for the poor. She is the ex-Queen Natalie, of the king, Draga, the wife of the Milan Obrenovitch, king of the Serbians. Her husband abdicated when the Serbian parliament insisted that his scandalous goings-on brought the country into disrepute, which was left his wife also and disappeared in the maelstrom of the Paris underworld.

His son Alexander became king. Alexander Obrenovitch, King Alexander, was a young man, and he was not a very good one. He was a drinker, and he was a gambler, and he was a womanizer, and he was a tyrant. He was a man who was not fit to be a king.

The officers fired their revolvers into the royal bed and were on the point of leaving when one of them, by accident, discovered the half-naked king and queen crouching behind the door. Alexander fell on his knees and asked for mercy. He promised he would rid the world of Draga. The officers, however, were not satisfied. They wanted to see the king's head. They wanted to see the king's head.

The little lady Queen Natalie, who now lives in Paris, saw the whole revolting scene, as she looked from a window in an opposite wing of the palace. She was the king's mother. The king's friends were massacred the same night and in the course of the next few days. Europe was shocked when the news came through, although at that time nobody was talking about the king's death.

Four days later, when the killings and slaughtering was still going on, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador notified the Serb government that the king was not to stop at Belgrade. The emperor Francis Joseph would command his army to march in and occupy the country.

The king's friends were massacred the same night and in the course of the next few days. Europe was shocked when the news came through, although at that time nobody was talking about the king's death.

Four days later, when the killings and slaughtering was still going on, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador notified the Serb government that the king was not to stop at Belgrade. The emperor Francis Joseph would command his army to march in and occupy the country.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon

METAMORPHOSIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The administration has been sliding imperceptibly out from under the restriction of production idea. You could see it first in the recent swing AAA-er Davis made through the farm belt. He omitted the word "curtailment" in all his talks and used the word "adjustment" instead. That may seem to be trivial, but you will get its importance when plans for next year's farm program are announced.

Even more significant is NRA's recent statement that henceforth it will soft pedal on production control devices for industry. The final word was spoken when Reliefer Hopkins asserted, concerning his farm-industry town program, that he "is not one of those scarcity boys."

IMPORTANCE The significance behind these developments is that the era of curtailing is just about over and the era of encouragement for expansion is about to begin. The New Dealers see no conflict of motives in this prospective change. They believe the holding-down program was essential for the period in which it was undertaken, but that now the situation calls for something else.

How they are going to work it out in connection with the basic farm price policy is one of the perplexities yet to be solved. That also is the reason why the AAA-ers have only been dropping significant hints about it so far.

PROOF There can be no doubt but that Messrs. Hopkins and Davis speak for the man higher up. And their straws cast to the winds were less emphatic than public assertion of the NRA board. It has aired the view that industry has been ignoring potential markets by keeping output at a low level. That statement implied a return to the old 5 and 10-cent store theory that it is better to sell a lot of goods cheap than to sell few goods at high prices.

To connect that idea with the words of Davis, "the genius of the American people will not be content while underconsumption and unemployment are companions."

BUNGLE The New Deal press agents shivered when they heard that the good Dr. Floyd Reeves had informed the radio hearings that the TVA favors government-owned radio. They could imagine the statement which Senator Schall would issue about that. Fast footwork saved the day for them, but Dr. Reeves' face has not yet resumed its natural color.

A quick call from an important quarter to TVA Chairman Morgan brought forth announcement that TVA sponsors no such idea. TVA-ers explained Dr. Reeves' remarks had been read too hastily and that there was nothing more behind the incident than that.

PEACE It would be embarrassing to mention the name of the Russian authority who advocates it, but it is no violation of his confidence to tell the interesting and private idea he has for preserving world peace. He says that, if the United States maintained a big army and the Soviet Union a smaller one, on a similar scale, they could require the world to keep peace. No other announcement would be required, except one that Russia and the United States intended to see that peace was maintained.

His view is based, of course, on the theory that the United States and Russia are the two largest nations which sincerely want peace, and that they have few conflicting interests.

MILK The milk train is running off the track again and congress will be asked to flag it down. So much is clear as a result of the fourth-month study by the federal trade commission. Only $30,000 was allotted the commission for this job. Now it has concluded at least another $100,000 is needed.

It has come to this decision after unearthing a wide variety of abuses. Not all dairies are guilty, of course. But those that are infect the whole industry. Combinations among distributors (sometimes even including farmer co-operatives) to control the market are a chief source of trouble. A certain amount of "co-operation" with city health departments has been uncovered. Interlocking interests of ostensibly competing dairies is to be charged.

Investigators even whisper of some bribery of hotel chefs and apartment managers, payment of protection money and destruction by rivals of each other's bottles.

Secret ambition of Chester Davis, AAA-er, is to go back to running a country newspaper.

THE THOROUGHBRED HORSE SELLS FOR LESS
If His Manners Are Vile
By Robert Quillen

Anybody who is capable of compassion must feel a great sympathy for boys in their teens. Very few of them have been trained in good manners, yet their present reputation and future success depend in large measure on their knowledge of civilized behavior.

Parents are quite sure they have trained Junior correctly, but most of the time they are mistaken in telling him that dunking isn't nice and scolding him for reaching.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Sinclair Uses Old Method.

SAO FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—The most popular book in California just now is a work of prophecy by Upton Sinclair, the democratic nominee for governor. It is called "The Great Depression," and it looks back on the complete fulfillment of an old dream of his. Mr. Sinclair has not even been elected yet, but nevertheless he looks back on a magnificent success.

Mr. Sinclair is an author of great renown who has not hesitated to borrow not only a dream but a method of treatment from the late Edward Bellamy. Mr. Bellamy beat him to the idea of looking backward into the future years ago in a novel called "Equality." Your correspondent therefore offers no further apology for borrowing from Mr. Sinclair's borrowings.

However, your correspondent borrows only the methods and the style of Mr. Sinclair's dream, while acknowledging a profound Sinclair influence.

Here's a Dream This is the story of a man who was a winner of Irish Sweepstakes. One day a man asked me if I would buy a ticket on the Irish sweepstakes. I said "Yes."

I put the ticket away and was much surprised one morning to receive a cable from Dublin informing me that I had drawn a horse. My steed's name was Crackpot, by Pipe-dream, of All Nations.

A few days later they ran the race and I won $3,000,000 and some odd cents. This made me feel wonderful. Golly, I felt wonderful.

Practical Details There are some practical details to be filled in at this point, but this is an emergency and they will have to be worked out later. Anyway, we were three days out of New York when the house detective knocked on my door and handed me a message. It said, "Sorry, but you must sell your horse to me. (Signed) Vincent Astor."

There were similar messages from Mr. Morgan and two unidentified friends. We were 350 miles from the coast of some place that will have to be worked out under practical conditions and couldn't get a yacht.

"Be" I mean, of course, myself and one. I do not feel at liberty to mention one's name and I am sure no respectable person will press me on this subject. I mean—well, after all.

I was young back there in 1905, and the pounding of my pulses was such that I now think I was in the experience, I sometimes wonder if it was true. If not, skip it. It's only a dream.

Public Stirred The public reaction to all this was something terrific. I had always wanted to be a great man, and now the throngs were massed to the ivy-clad quadrangle and the gates of picket lines and old barrels. I sat there, modestly disclaiming any credit for my enormous achievements of the last four years, and reading a copy of something called a man named Bellamy. As I smoked, the sweet, sensual reek of the poppy suffused me, and I thought, "How interesting but how unscrupulous of me to have played to the public's dream in all its essentials 37 years before I originated it and published it to the world." Some people do not understand how a man can originate something 37 years after it has been plagiarized. It is a little thought of my own.

LEGION VOTES FOR CASH BONUS

keeping loss for the government and not a cash outlay. With scattered boys directed at opposing state delegations, the Legion voted for the bonus resolution, 1987 to 1,000, after a long and heated discussion at the convention hall.

The Legion claimed immediate cash payment would do these things: 1. Increase tremendously the purchasing power of millions of the consuming public, distributed uniformly throughout the nation.

2. Provide relief for the holders of certificates who are in "dire straits" because of the present "unfortunate" economic conditions, and 3. Lighten immeasurably the burden of the nation's debt.

The resolution said in part: "That since the government of the United States is now definitely committed to the policy of spending additional sums of money for the purpose of hastening recovery from the present economic crisis, the American Legion pledges its support to the government at face value of the adjusted service certificates, with cancellation of interest accrued and refund of interest paid, as a most effective means to that end."

Other Business. The troublesome bonus question settled, so far as the sixteenth national convention is concerned, and a new national commander elected, the Legion transacted the following other business: Demanded by voice vote that the United States rescind its recognition of the Soviet Union, declaring that country had not kept its promise that "communist activity" would cease in this nation.

Went on record in opposition to permit Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the wartime draft dodger, to return to the United States from Europe. Pledged continued activity against "insidious propaganda" attacking the constitution of the United States. Asked that school teachers be required to sign pledges of allegiance to the American flag.

GEORGIA SUPPORTS BONUS PAYMENT

MIAMI, Oct. 25.—Georgia, with 13 votes, joined 42 other departments of the American Legion today in voting unanimously for immediate cash payment of the bonus.

New York, with 81 votes, was the only one of the large departments voting solidly against the proposal. Other departments balloting unanimously against the step were: Arizona, 11; Hawaii, 7; Vermont, 9.

Departments splitting their choice were: Colorado, 3 for, 11 against; Maine, 2 for, 11 against; Nevada, 6 for, 2 against; Panama, 2 for, 4 against; and Virginia, 3 for, 12 against; Mexico, New Mexico, the Philippine Islands and Puerto Rico, all abstained.

views. E. A. Jennings speaking against the resolution, William F. Pritchard, for it. John D. Sullivan, of New York, also opposed it. William H. Miller, of Connecticut, a Legion veteran, was rolled forward in a wheel chair, and said: "If this resolution passes, we will increase our membership. But do we want members who would not come into the Legion until they saw something for themselves?"

Of the 1,198 delegates entitled to vote, only 28 did not cast ballots.

MRS. CARSON NAMED AUXILIARY PRESIDENT
MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. C. A. Carson, of Millmar, Minn., was elected national president of the American Legion Auxiliary here today. Mrs. Malcolm Douglas, of Seattle, Wash., was the alternate, and drew and moved the unanimous election of Mrs. Carson.

Mrs. Joseph H. Thompson, Beaver Falls, Pa., was elected national president of the E. I. D. A. auxiliary.

The following were unanimously elected vice presidents: Western division, Estelle A. Saxton, Kayesville, Utah; northwest division, Mrs. W. Francis Smith, Landers, Wyo.; southern division, Mrs. Douglas, of Seattle, Wash.; eastern division, Mrs. Jonathan B. Wheatley, Cambridge, Md.; central division, Mrs. Myron Miller, Anthony, Kansas.

MASSACHUSETTS MAN HEADS "40 AND 8"
MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25.—(AP)—John D. Crowley, of Cambridge, Mass., was elected chief of the "40 and 8," play organization of the American Legion, at the close of the sixteenth annual national convention here today.

Sous chef de chemin de fer named by the convention were: M. A. Weller, of Pennsylvania; Mel D. Johnson, of California; Dewey Powell, Oregon; James D. Gentry, of Arizona; M. A. Radford, Texas, and George Pelletier, of Tennessee.

Soviet Recognition Scored by Legion
OLYMPIA THEATER, MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Here is the full text of a resolution adopted by the American Legion today calling for cancellation of America's recognition of the Russian soviet government:

"Whereas, the American Legion has heretofore opposed the recognition of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics from Russia directly or indirectly, would forthwith cease, and 'Whereas, such activities have not ceased, but have, on the contrary, greatly increased, as evidenced by the industrial unionism and civil commotion within this country:

"Therefore be it resolved, that we urge the immediate recession of recognition of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics by the United States of America."

The resolution was adopted by voice vote without a roll call.

plied Japanese threat to walk out of the preliminary naval discussions in London.

Building Threat. Some Nipponese spokesmen have indicated that country would abrogate the Washington and London limitation treaties and build a navy of any size it deems necessary for its defense, unless Great Britain and the United States grant it equality in naval power.

Japan is forced to import practically all of the oil it consumes. A majority of the Japanese navy vessels and a large number of Japanese merchantmen are oil burners.

The Japanese government has reported reliably to have stored a huge emergency pool of oil in underground "tank farms" near Yokohama, which was lost when the great earthquake of 1923 shook the Japanese empire. Japan, since that time, has been reported on numerous occasions as building up an enormous supply of oil for use in any emergency.

American and other foreign oil companies now have large investments in property, plants and equipment in Manchukuo which would be virtually wiped out under the monopoly plan. They have been steadily streamlining the state department.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

By MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 25.—Kay Francis is the girl who is giving Hollywood the worry at the moment. Is it Cheever, or is it an Italian nobleman? It must be love because she never looked so gorgeous in her entire life. She has emeralds a-plenty and that is more than most screen stars come back from Europe with. And she has that luminous look of a lady who is being appreciated.

But she doesn't say yes and she doesn't say no.

Charles Laughton simply blew up on the Micaire row, having hysterics of sorts on the set and altogether complicating a picture which has had plenty of complications already. Of course, the part was written by Dickens just so W. C. Fields might one day play it—if you're a believer in fate.

W. C. Fields is the most resourceful man in motion pictures today. His screen career for the role proved so satisfactory that the laughter of his standing about on the sound stage drowned out much of his dialog. This gives the studio a big problem—how to time the lines so that the audience will not lose the trend of the scene.

All of William Claude Fields' recent work is not in the sound stage. Some of his answers—aside from the lines written for him—are priceless. A Metro executive, watching him in a scene for a picture, said: "You use a good deal of make-up on the nose, don't you, Mr. Fields? And very little on the rest of the face. Which makes your nose look so inimitable way. Nine Burbons a day, George, and I love it!"

Another time he forgot the key to his cell in the Paramount dressing room. He ran out of the lot calling frenziedly for stage carpenters to break into the closet.

"Hurry, hurry, Mr. Filipino boy! I'm locked there and I'm afraid he'll smother." The carpenters tore away at the closet, working in feverish haste, and finally flung back the door to disclose only a tempting array of bottles.

"May I pour you boys one?" said Fields, and he was certainly done with this little job in record time.

Helen Hayes in Barrie's play, "What Every Woman Knows," will be one of the rare delights of the year for that group of us who "love a good stage play." If you close your eyes a moment and forget the size of the cinema palace in which you are sitting, you will have no difficulty in feeling that you are indeed in the best and seeing theater at its best.

a strong position and eager to co-operate in the normal expansion of business enterprise." They spoke, too, of "encouraging signs that business is now beginning to seek a greater volume" of bank loans.

MISSING TEACHER FOUND IN THEATER

Police Questions Woman Whose 'Ransom' $30,000
Was Demanded.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—(P)—Miss Virginia Switzer, country school teacher of McHenry, Miss., who disappeared from her home today, was located in a theater dressing room here tonight by police and told a story of having been kidnapped by two men. Police doubted her story of the kidnapping, since they said she parked her automobile in a parking lot and entered the theater alone. Several country people also said they saw her driving toward New Orleans alone during the day.

Her family at McHenry believed she had been kidnapped when she suddenly disappeared while her mother and father were away on a fishing trip. A note demanding $30,000 ransom was found on a table in the house.

A negro employed in an automobile parking lot said Miss Switzer drove her car into the lot at 12:30 p. m. today and ordered the car kept until tomorrow. He said she had some loose bandages in her hand and dropped them in her hat when she walked off. The police took her from the theater to police headquarters for questioning.

KIDNAPED GIRL FOUND

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—(P)—Elsie Waier, co-ed of Wayne University,

William Lane, rural mail carrier kidnaped yesterday near Halfway, Mo.,

advised Sheriff William (Jack) Killingsworth late today his abductors

The finding of Lane's blood-spattered motor car earlier today

IN BUFFALO STREET

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 25.—(P)—

Russell Counsel, 5, schoolboy en route home for dinner, was kidnaped at noon today by two men in an automobile as, police said, they failed in an attempt to also abduct the victim's brother, John, 8.

Police were unable to say whether the kidnapping was done for ransom or to spite the boy's mother, Mrs. Alberta Counsel.

A note, delivered to her about an hour after the abduction by a messenger, said the kidnappers "loved her son as if he were his own" and "didn't like the way he was being cared for."

It was the second time, the escaped boy said, that he and his brother had been kidnaped. The same man took them away from their home in Erie, Pa., a few years ago. Then, the boy said, his mother went to Salisbury, N. Y., found them there, and brought them to Buffalo.

To Be Disinherited.

Neblett thundered a warning that Senator McAdoo would disinherit his daughter if she persisted in flaunting his disapproval of the marriage to a man he has not seen and does not know.

Neblett said his interference with her plans now "but I am sure she will thank me in the years to come."

Neblett said that if the couple should go to Mexico and be married, they might be subject to legal action "the very minute they set foot on American soil."

"The marriage of a Caucasian to a Filipino is illegal in California," he said, "and it would mean no matter where it was performed."

In the Philippines, birthplace of De Omate, the Manila Tribune said the actor was of Spanish and not Filipino parentage. There was a discrepancy, however, between the newspaper's record of his age and the figure given here.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—(P)—United States Senator John H. Overton and Burt W. Henry, socially prominent attorney, today resumed their dispute in the old-fashioned way to day when they tied up in a furious one-round fist fight in the crowded lobby of the Roosevelt hotel.

Squaring off as excited spectators filled the lobby, Overton, senate colleague and political ally of Huey P. Long, and Henry, vigorous anti-Long leader, fought for nearly three minutes before bellboys stopped the fight.

The finish found Overton bleeding from a nasty cut over his right eye and marked by a doctor's patch up the left eye, and swollen on his chin and two well-defined bruises under each eye that may ultimately blend into "shiners."

Henry was unmarked.

With a couple of exceptions, which may or may not be important, their after-battle versions of the trouble jibed.

Henry, demanding an apology for a remark Overton made about him on the floor of the United States senate a year ago, said he "slapped" Overton on the first blow.

The senator, bleeding over the eye and from the mouth, was led upstairs to his room. Henry left the lobby.

Jack Dempsey, the "Old Man" himself, was in the hotel. He was here to referee a wrestling match.

Mrs. Overton, wiping the blood off her husband's face as a doctor patched up the eye cut, laughed and said:

"John, I guess you'd better get Jack Dempsey to teach you a few things."

Overton, 50 years old, said the last fight he had was when he was 18. He offered no alibi but said he wondered if Henry didn't have a ring on his hand that caused the cut over his eye.

Henry wears a band ring.

"But it's on my left hand and I didn't use my left at all," said Henry.

Henry, as president of the House Election League, was active in the senate investigation of Overton's successful campaign against former Senator Edwin D. Broussard.

Overton charged that while Henry and the league were supposed to be non-partisan, they were not.

On the senate floor, Overton said Henry's testimony before the special senate committee headed by Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, "proved neither he nor the league were non-partisan."

He said the committee had "torn

New Paved Link of 'Four Capitals' Highway

Three American Physicians Share $41,000 Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 25.—(P)—The Nobel prize in medicine today was divided among three citizens of the United States—Dr. George Minot and Dr. William P. Murphy, of Harvard medical school, and Dr. George H. Whipple, of the University of Rochester.

The three physicians share a $41,000 award for their study and development of dietary treatment of anemia.

Dr. Minot traces his interest in the study of blood diseases to a case which baffled physicians in the Massachusetts General hospital and which he correctly diagnosed.

"Ever since then," he said, "I have been interested in the cells of the blood and the diseases which effect them."

He and Dr. Murphy had long been at work when Dr. Whipple's independent study was completed with the conclusion that liver had helped to clear up anemia in animals and man.

Dr. Murphy and Dr. Minot made a long and painstaking study of the disease before they began joint treatment of 10 cases in 1927. A year later they disclosed their discovery.

Treatment of the disease has been perfected in the years since. Now it is possible to give the liver an extract form with as little as two table-spoons weekly.

Remedies for pernicious anemia—until eight years ago regarded as incurable—were rewarded today when the three American scientists who discovered and developed them were named co-recipients of the Nobel prize in medicine for 1934.

Dr. Minot, Dr. Murphy worked together and announced their results in 1926.

Dr. Whipple also investigated the liver treatment for anemia.

Dr. Minot, the son of a physician, is a graduate of the Harvard medical school, in which he is a professor of medicine. He is a director of the medical laboratory at Boston's city hospital and a fellow of the Royal College of Edinburgh.

Dr. Whipple is professor of pathology and dean of the Rochester school of medicine and dentistry and has been there since 1921.

He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins medical school and has specialized in pathology throughout his career, which has included service in hospitals in Panama, Baltimore and on the faculties of Johns Hopkins and the University of California. He was director of the Hooper Foundation for Medical Research and a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Long Ally Is Bested by Foe

and Macon, have notified The Constitution and the Savannah Morning News, sponsors of the event, that they will send delegations to join the 'cade at suitable junction points along the road.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, president emeritus of the University of Georgia, and Mrs. Sanford, will head a party of approximately 25 cars from Athens, which will join the motorcade at Madison.

Dr. Sanford is enthusiastic over plans for the 'cade. On Thursday he said that every Georgian who possibly could join the party should make the trip to Savannah next week.

"This highway traverses a section not only as rich in agriculture and native resources as any of the state, but also containing historic shrines sacred to every loyal Georgian," said Dr. Sanford. "It is a glorious route through the state, both from scenic and sentimental reasons."

First stop will be at Milledgeville, where the motorcade from the north and south will be met by the Georgia State College for Women by a group of the domestic science girls.

Brief welcoming speeches will be made and the 'cade will then be taken on a short sight-seeing tour of the historic old city.

The next stop will be at Louisville, where a 15-minute program has been arranged.

At Statesboro the Savannah delegation will meet the motorcade from the north and escort it into the city by the sea, famed all over the world for its hospitality and royal gifts of entertainment.

eral states. Some employers contended that the walkout was facilitated by the knowledge that relief would be forthcoming to those who struck.

Another point, repeatedly raised by union spokesmen in the past, the increasing mechanization of the industry, was met inferentially by two points in the platform.

One read: "The cotton textile industry, if it is to survive, must avail itself of the developments of science and invention. The application and operation of these developments depend on varying conditions requiring various programs of operation in individual mills."

The other was: "The duty of management to conduct the business for which it is responsible, should not be obstructed by forcing a surrender of its proper functions to the government or employ organizations."

"Otherwise industry is deprived of that confidence which is absolutely necessary before a return to a more normal prosperity is possible."

Basic for All.

The resolution adopted immediately after the platform was made public, after declaring that the association believes that these principles are basic for all industries said:

"The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers does now invite and urge all other industries to adopt this same or some similar platform of principles of industrial relations to the end that the relations between industry and labor may be clearly defined for the good of all."

Ernest N. Hood, treasurer of the Pequot mills at Salem, who was elected president of the National Association, in discussing the recent strike said many mills were still feeling the loss of new business occasioned by the disruption of the industry.

He declined to discuss publication of his views of the future of the industry but did say:

"In the old days businessmen, if they had a certain amount of brains and judgment, and the cards were on the table, could draw their own conclusions. Now, every once in a while, the administration or someone else throws a few new cards on the table."

ANDERSON ASKS END TO PROCESSING TAX

MACON, Ga., Oct. 25.—(P)—W. D. Anderson, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, today made public a letter to Secretary Wallace in which the association urged elimination of processing taxes and recommended if the farmer is to receive a "bonus" it be paid out of the national treasury.

The association represents manufacturers in southern states where approximately two-thirds of the country's active spindles are located and where 80 per cent of the cotton consumed in this country is spun.

Anderson told the secretary of agriculture that the association at its recent meeting in Greenville, S. C., adopted a resolution which said the processing tax on cotton goods acted as an excessive sales tax and had retarded recovery.

Anderson said that it was easy to understand why the buying public was "refusing to absorb our goods" when the processing tax which, he said, amounted to a sales tax on textiles of 10 and 12 per cent, was added to the "present high cost" of production and the doubling of prices of raw material "largely through governmental intervention."

The textile industry, he added, is sympathetic toward the condition of the farmer.

"The cotton farmer and all of that great body of citizens who are immediately concerned with its operations . . . are the largest and best customers for the products of our manufacture. We, therefore, offer no objection to the payment to the farmer of any benefits or bounties necessary to bring his condition to the level of other classes of citizens and other types of business."

The processing tax, the letter continued, placed an excessive burden on manufacturing products and "granting that benefits should be paid the farmer, the more equitable plan would be to distribute the cost of these benefits upon all classes of business and all classes of citizens by paying the same out of the treasury."

The cotton textile industry, Anderson said, is "bleeding internally and its most dangerous wound has resulted from the blow dealt it by the imposition of the processing tax."

DECATUR POSTOFFICE GRANITE BIDS ALLOWED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—At the instance of Representative Robert Ramspeck, of the fifth Georgia district, treasury department officials today consented to permit alternate bids on granite for use in construction of the new government postoffice building authorized for Decatur.

Specifications will be accordingly drawn to allow a granite structure. The new Decatur postoffice will represent a cost of approximately $75,000.

Tech and Georgia Leave Tonight for Games on Saturday

The Fumes of Arnica Arise From Athens and the Flats!

Yesterday afternoon, just before dusk, a flock of blackbirds fell in a heap near Winder.

A scientific investigation revealed that the fumes of arnica, liniment and iodine arising from the football headquarters at Athens, Ga., and at Grant field, Atlanta, had come together in an air current and proved too much for the birds.

An airplane headed for Candler field reported the fumes to be almost unendurable and asked all pilots to avoid these air currents.

Never have I seen a more woe-begone sight than the one at the Flats as Tech prepares to load her recruits into the trains tonight for the long journey to New Orleans, where the Tidal Wave of Tulane waits for Saturday afternoon.

The boys have taken three straight on the chin and they are reasonably sure to take another one on the goatee Saturday afternoon.

Yet the able-bodied are facing the prospect with good cheer. They are prepared to sell themselves dearly, and shout "Remember the Alamo" or "We have just begun to fight," and plunge into the fray.

The list of injured at Georgia Tech is by far the greatest in modern years. Three regulars, Norris Dean, Clyde Williams and Charley Preston, have not had on uniforms all week. Three other regulars are injured.

It is quite possible that the lineup which Mr. William Alexander throws in there on Saturday will be a strange one to the telegraph operators and to the boys setting the type in the various newspaper shops.

They are sloshing arnica around by the gallon over at Athens where the list of injured has had some additions. Georgia has the better chance of the two teams. It seems impossible that Tech can win. Georgia has a chance, although it must be set down as a thin one.

JUST ONE OF THOSE YEARS.

Harry Mehre and William Alexander have done good jobs with their respective squads. I suspect they have got out of them as much as anyone could have obtained.

They have each lost key men who were necessary to the stability of their squads. Seniors on a team react very badly to defeat. Especially seniors who had a good year as juniors.

They are prone to accept one defeat as wrecking the entire season. It is just one of those psychological reactions and explains why senior performers, who were All-Southern or All-Americans in their junior year, fail to reach the peak in their final season.

Alexander stated before the season that any success his team might have depended entirely on five key men and that injury to any one of them would destroy any possibility of success. He lost Jack Phillips early. Others of the five key men are now injured.

At Athens Cy Grant was hurt and then re-hurt. Loss of other good men for a week or so wrecked the chances to create any consistent and effective attack.

These two teams and their coaches are having one of those years of which the poet Bobby Burns spoke; the years wherein the best laid plans of mice and men get kicked right square in the pants.

GEORGIA COMES BACK.

Georgia came surging back against Tulane. On the morning the Bulldogs will swing into action against the Alabama team.

I can, with no effort at all, work up considerable sentiment

DEAN TO JOIN JACKET SQUAD FOR WAVE GAME

Alex Plans To Start as Many Regulars as Possible.

By Jimmy Jones.

Coach William Alexander, who has had more worries than Papa Diones, the father of the quintuplets, during the past week, what with some eight or ten injuries on his football squad, thought he could glimpse the thread of a silver lining in the opaque atmosphere of the Tech Flats yesterday.

This was after he was tentatively informed by Mike Chambers, the Tech trainer, that Pee Wee Williams, the tackle; Dave Wilcox, the guard, and "Kitty" Katz, the end, might be started against Tulane Saturday at New Orleans in a pinch.

That is to state these three must be kept in the training room, and be able to start the game, but just how long they will be able to play is yet another matter.

PRESTON MAY PLAY.

Charley Preston, the promising sophomore center who has been included among the injured, also, will be strapped up and ready for action in an emergency, but Coach Alexander very likely will start "Moocho" Lyons or Carl Shaw, instead.

This about takes care of the doubtful men on the eve of the meeting with Big Ted Cox's green legion in the next football battle at New Orleans. Therein Tech would be vastly pleased to make even somewhere close to as good a showing as that of Georgia last Saturday.

But there is one injured player who not only is out of this game, but probably all of Tech's remaining games. He is Johnny Ferguson, the unfortunate left halfback, who got a nasty lick on his right knee (this kicking leg) Tuesday which apparently has terminated his football career.

Ferguson was the best kicker at Georgia Tech, next to Norris Dean. And speaking of Mr. Dean, he informed Coach Alexander yesterday that he would join the squad at New Orleans and would be ready to play if he needs him.

HAS TO PLAY.

With the idea of playing a man who hasn't been at practice all week, somewhat bizarre and unusual at first thought, Coach Alexander probably will have to play Dean at right tackle if he shows up in time for the game, since he is the only long-distance kicker he has left.

Mr. Alexander has other tackles, Eubanks, Fitzsimmons, Lindsey, Chance, Smith, etc., but he hasn't a man who can play tackle and kick. The coach is now looking for a man who can play tackle and kick. The coach is now looking for a man who can play tackle and kick.

Dean was called home Monday by the serious illness of a brother in Meridian, Miss. He said he would be back in New Orleans in a week, but he doesn't know. But if he does that well, he will have missed a week of practice.

TAG FOOTBALL.

The Jackets didn't do much yesterday. Saturday's game against Tulane plays on Wednesday and Mr. Alexander, fearful that more men might be hurt, decided to leave men enough alone. So the boys played "tag football" and over six hundred games yesterday by way of relaxing and resting up for another thousand miles of traveling and a hard game in weather that might be hot and humid and reserve strength than Tech can muster.

Coach Alexander will probably start "Sun Dial" Martin or Lawrence Hays, the sophomore, at left halfback Saturday. Ferguson, out, came back strong and held Tech High to a scoreless tie last week at Atlanta. Monroe actually outplayed the Smiths, who were the mainstay of the defense, and he did it so well that Tech High never really threatened to score.

"Red" Sanders, former Vanderbilt halfback, has developed an unusually strong team at Riverside and in Rucky O'Connor, of Nashville, he has an outstanding backfield star.

Monroe's stars, Captain Reddick, Golightly and Sprayberry, are in the line.

MAULDIN, OLSON TO MEET TONIGHT

Miss Dolly Dalton, blond wrestler, will meet Miss Laura Davis in a best two-out-of-three-fall match at the Riverside arena tonight on Promoter Frank Bettis' card.

In the main match on the program, John Mauldin will wrestle Al Olson, the terrible Swede. This match was arranged after Olson stated he could win over the meanest man in Atlanta.

Bob Anderson will meet Red Dugan in a grudge match, no time limit affair. These two wrestlers started an argument last week at this arena. The promoter asked them to settle their difference this week in the ring.

There will also be a six-round boxing match on the program. The Riverside arena is located on Hollywood road.

Willa Returns As Mat Referee

Jess Willard, former heavyweight boxing champion, is back in Atlanta to keep a series of engagements to referee wrestling matches in cities near here.

The former champion will handle a show tonight at LaGrange, and is scheduled to appear later this week at Marietta and Gainesville. Following these engagements he will go into Tennessee for next week.

Mrs. Willard is accompanying her husband on their trip south.

Five Harness Horses Burn; 17 Rescued

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Five harness race horses valued at several thousand dollars were burned to death when fire of undetermined origin damaged a large barn at the state fair grounds here early today.

Seventeen other thoroughbreds, including "His Majesty" and "The Greyhound," prize-winning trotters, were rescued.

Capitol Club Scene Today Of Southern

By Jack Troy.

On the verge, so to speak, of the Southern States shoot, which gets under way at 10 o'clock this morning at the Capitol Gun Club, a fellow wrote in wanting to trade a shotgun for a guitar. But this will have absolutely no effect on the shoot which is to draw leading skeeters of Dixie, it was reported.

A crew of workmen, headed by Secretary Jack Tway, pushed work on the new elevated field and completed it just at nightfall. It had been planned to test it out yesterday, but several details held up its completion.

The new field is elevated except on positions four and five. A boardwalk leads to solid ground on these stations. All other targets are shot at from a substantial boardwalk, which is 15 feet above ground.

Conforming with the color harmony, the field on stilts has been painted green. Across the valley there are the green and gold daubed oaks, pines and hickory trees.

KEEN EYE NECESSARY.

A background of trees on a couple of the positions will demand a keen eye to see the targets before they are "long gone."

The elevated field is undoubtedly the sportiest of its kind in the country. And is a real test of shooting skill.

Yesterday's practice shoot on the old field attracted quite a crowd of Atlanta sportsmen. Tom Parsons' straight ended on the seventh target of a new round. This gave him a total of 157 consecutive hits. The performance tied Hugh Nunnally's run during the summer at the Capitol club.

Because several of the junior shooters are unable to leave school, the Southern States junior championship will be held Saturday instead of today. Paul Kellar, the stellar young Athens star, will compete. Luther McDonald, of Atlanta, appears to be his chief opponent.

PRACTICE EVENT.

The Southern States practice class event—three classes—is scheduled to open the program at 10 o'clock this morning. This will be followed by the 110 gauge championship and by the Father and Son championship.

To the first shooter breaking a 25 straight on the new elevated field, a free round of skeet will be given. The early bird, it is somewhat of a sharpshooting bird, likely will catch the worm, in this case.

Leading gun clubs of the south will be represented in the two-day skeet festival. And spectators are cordially invited.

Keen-eyed Atlanta stars will bid to keep the excellent trophies at home. And it goes without saying that a missed target or two in any event will be the misser among the boys missing when the awards are handed out.

MONROE FACES ATLANTIC STEEL RIVERSIDE TODAY

MONROE, Ga., Oct. 25.—An important game in the Georgia Inter-scholastic Athletic Association will be played here tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when Red Barron's Monroe Aggies meet Riverside Military Academy. It should be the best game of the season for Barron field and the Aggies are being made for the largest crowd of the season to be present.

Riverside is undefeated and has one of its strongest teams in recent years. The Aggies, on the other hand, are 7-1 last Saturday at Gainesville, and are seeking another G. I. A. A. win tomorrow.

Monroe, after a slow start in losing to Commercial and G. M. A., came back strong and held Tech High to a scoreless tie last week at Atlanta. Monroe actually outplayed the Smiths, who were the mainstay of the defense, and he did it so well that Tech High never really threatened to score.

"Red" Sanders, former Vanderbilt halfback, has developed an unusually strong team at Riverside and in Rucky O'Connor, of Nashville, he has an outstanding backfield star.

The Riverside band and a large group of students will come to the game.

CLEMSON BEATS GAMECOCKS, 19-0

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 25.—(UP)—Clemson scored two touchdowns and a pair of field goals to defeat the University of South Carolina, 19-0, here today before 17,500 fans in the annual state fair football game.

Clemson marched to its first touchdown early in the first period. Mr. Cowan punting for the counter. Another touchdown came in the final quarter. Woodward scoring on an off-tackle play.

Fellows kicked field goals in the first and fourth periods to add six points to the final score.

Score by periods: 10 0 0 0—19 South Carolina 0 0 0 0—0 Touchdowns: McCown, Woodward; field goals: Fellows 2; point after touchdowns: Fellows.

Abie Coleman Heads Tuesday Mat Program

Abie Coleman, who is to rattle in the headline bout at the auditorium next Tuesday night, was the first American grappler to operate extensively in Mexico.

It was Abe who had the gendarmes called out for his protection as he went to work on the grapplers who were imported to beat him. No one did the job and the infuriated Mexicans had the Jewish champion leaping around like one of the famed Mexican jumping beans as he dodged their bottles and epithets.

He is to meet Orville Brown in Henry Weber's card of Tuesday night at the auditorium. The custom-built champion, who is one of the finest physical specimens in the game, sent in the following wire in accepting the Brown match:

"Henry Weber—Atlanta—I am glad to be coming back to Atlanta. Tell my friends I will toss that Brown on his ear twice in as fast time as possible. And it won't be long."

Coleman is popular here and is always the recipient of many midnight dinner invitations following his matches.

PETRELS READY FOR STRUGGLE WITH HOWARD

Student Body All Pepped Up for First Game at Hermance Stadium.

By Jack Troy.

Oglethorpe's student body tonight will assemble out at Hermance field and do the equivalent of burning Howard's Bulldogs in effigy, hoping all the while that the Stormy Petrels accomplish the same in point of fact Saturday afternoon.

Gold and Black spirit is running high for this game. And it is very significant. Because it is the first time this season that the students have actually taken cognizance of the fact that they have a winner on the campus.

Maybe this is because it is the first game the Petrels are scheduled to play in Hermance stadium. There have been two home games but both were played at Ponce de Leon park.

There is no doubt that Oglethorpe's team spirit will match that of the students. The team has won four games out of five in a grand march of the football wilderness.

John Patrick and Harry Wren, a couple of alumni Moscoses, are responsible for the best team Oglethorpe has had since 1926.

SALUTE MITRICK.

And there is no finer captain and fullback leading a southern team today than Frank Mitrick, the powerhouse fullback. Mitrick is the best thing Oglethorpe ever has had in the way of a fullback. He can plunge, run and back up a line like nobody's business. Except Oglethorpe's.

Rain drove the Petrels indoors for the first part of yesterday's workout. A lengthy signal drill in stocking feet was observed. Later the squad went outdoors, worked on tackling and blocking and ran more signals.

All the injured players—Reynolds, Sullivan, Leslie and Puryear, backs—were out in uniform and were reported available for Saturday. Ed Massey, who has a leg injury, will report for center duty and is sure as taxes to play his sixth full game of the season.

EVEN BET.

Oglethorpe, with full strength available, is no less than an even bet against Howard. The Bulldogs have the better defense, the Petrels have an edge offensively. And so, evening it all up and with proper credit being given the fine record of Howard, there is no other choice than an even bet.

The Petrels, with their Robisons, their McNeelys, their Masseys and their Freemans in the line, will not miss a quarter, as they say, from Howard.

The kickoff Saturday is scheduled for 2 o'clock. Tickets are on sale downtown at Marshall and Reynolds. One dollar is the admission price.

ATLANTIC STEEL WINS FIRST, 5-1

Atlantic Steel scored four runs in the tenth inning to defeat the Buckhead Fifty Club baseball team, 5-1, Thursday afternoon at Almond park in the first game of a three-game series to determine the Atlanta amateur championship.

Mayo, the winning hurler, struck out seven batters and allowed but four hits and two walks.

Cole, for Atlantic Steel, starred at the plate, getting four hits in five tries. He drove in three runs and scored one himself.

A double-header (if the second game is necessary) will complete the series Saturday. The first game will be at 1 o'clock at the Atlanta Steel diamond, with Whitney scheduled to take the mound for the Steel team, and Fuller for the Buckhead club.

Atlantic Steel . . . 000 000 4-5 8 0
Buckhead Fifty Club . . . 1-0 000 000 1-4 0

Semi-Pro Teams To Meet Sunday

Starting Sunday, semi-professional football games are to be played at Almond park each week. With several games already booked plans are to schedule games every Sunday to extend through New Year's.

The games are sponsored by B. Bennett, athletic director of Western Heights Athletic Club, who is optimistic over the outlook of semi-professional football in Atlanta. A small admission will be charged to the games, a percentage of which will be donated to the welfare of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Practice games have been held at the park the past few weeks with good attendance at every game. Games are to be scheduled with teams throughout the city. Players who participate, will be in the main, former high school and college men. Most of the teams scheduled will average 165 pounds per man.

Sunday Western Heights Athletic Club will play Orme park.

One of Alabama's Threats

Here's Joe Riley, Alabama's great kicker and passer, who takes up where Dixie Howell leaves off. Riley will be in there Saturday as the Georgia Bulldogs try to stop the great power of the Crimson eleven at Birmingham.

Which Is Better Man, Dizzy or Daffy Dean?

Philly Hurler Here, Says Older Brother Is Better Pitcher Right Now.

By Jimmy Jones.

Take it from a fellow who knows both of them very well—has pitched against both, in fact—the Dean brothers are great baseball pitchers, but the one who is called J. Herman (Dizzy) Dean is, currently, a much better pitcher than Paul (Daffy) Dean.

This point having been argued both ways in the public prints and several baseball managers, notably Bill Terry, of the Giants, having stated that they had rather have Paul, the younger brother of the famous duo, on their staffs, the writer decided to ask the first person who came along and knew anything about the Deans, what he thought of it.

The opportunity presented itself yesterday in the person of Austin "Cy" Moore, Elberton, Ga., boy, a former Georgia Tech pitcher under Phillips and now a regular member of the staff of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Austin Moore was encountered while strolling the streets on a shopping visit to the city, and he was immediately sounded out on the greatest brother act of the decade, namely, the Deans.

BOTH GREAT.

"They're both great pitchers," declared Austin Moore. "I've pitched against them and been beaten by them often enough to know. But personally I do not agree with the idea that, right now, Paul Dean is a better pitcher or even as good a pitcher as his big brother, 'Dizzy.'"

While Paul, undoubtedly, is a great young pitcher and may eventually be as great a star, give me 'Dizzy' Dean and his rubber arm when the going really gets tough.

I never saw a pitcher with as much confidence or as much courage as Dizzy Dean," Moore declared.

Austin Moore, who is considered as having one of the best fast balls in the National league himself, is a great admirer of both Deans' speed. Both have great fast balls and the other accessories that are needed. And he does not agree that Paul is faster than Dizzy.

He was asked what Dizzy had besides his speed.

"Everything," replied Moore. "But I would say that his greatest asset is confidence. His coaching has been a big help to Paul, his big brother."

Moore stated that Dizzy Dean and Jimmy Wilson, the Phillies' catcher and manager, were great friends, having become so when Wilson was with the Cards. And that Dizzy was always poking fun at Wilson and the Phillies.

"Why he'd come into our clubhouse before the game, tell us that he was going to beat the stuffing out of us and then go out there and do it. Then after the game he would come back and kid us about it. I never saw such a fellow."

Moore, like other big leaguers who know both Deans well, says there is actually nothing high hat or particularly daffy about them. And that they were well liked by ball players, in general.

RICE NAMED THEM.

"They're both just big country boys. I think Grantland Rice best described them when he said they were just a pair of big, lovable kids," Moore stated.

"But, speaking of great young pitchers, don't forget that we had a pretty

TIDE FAVORED BUT BULLDOGS HOPE TO UPSET

Red and Black Handicapped by Injuries. Guard Posts Weak.

By Ralph McGill.

Feeling very much like the gentleman who went bear hunting with a buggy whip, Mr. Harry Mehre will bear Georgia Bulldogs into Atlanta this afternoon and immediately out again to Birmingham.

And in Birmingham on Saturday afternoon he will throw his injured, racked, die-hard eleven against the rushing Crimson Tide from Alabama. Georgia is twice defeated, once by North Carolina, once by Tulane. The Crimson eleven is rated two touchdowns better. The wise ones are saying that Alabama must be flat-footed and chock full of the heavy weight of overconfidence if they are to be toppled from the pinnacle by Georgia.

OUT TO WIN.

But Georgia is hoping for no such luck as that. The Bulldogs do hope that the Alabama eleven went to the peak for Tennessee and, having achieved that victory, will lack the sharpness of attack and defense which threatened even upward to the Knoxville team to win or tie.

Georgia's guard weakness is really quite serious. John Brown, one of the two left, has a broken nose. Frank Johnson, the other, has a broken hand.

They will have to play about 60 minutes and sticking one's broken snout into terrific play isn't so pleasant even though it is protected by a nose guard. And a broken hand isn't comfortable any time, anywhere.

Georgia looked, so Mr. Mehre said, slowed up, tired and fagged in Thursday's drill. This isn't a bad omen. They may be fagged and may play in that fashion on Saturday. But this may have been the ebb. From yesterday they may bound upward.

Georgia is going out to win playing football. The Athens attack will be grim and hard. There is no denying that. It will have a pass game which is of the best. It will possess an elusive running game.

But the fact remains that the Crimson eleven, which is undefeated, has the heavier guns and to date no one has successfully disputed the power of the Little Corsican who said that everything, even divine aid, was on the side of the army—the heaviest guns.

They have all the wide range, light artillery, heavy artillery, an air attack and everything else which a perfectly balanced football force may have. This is a great Alabama team. It is one of the better teams in the nation.

HOPE FOR AN UPSET.

Southeastern Grid Program Offers Five Big Tilts Saturday

Kingfish Will Lead Parade in Nashville

Louisiana State Police To Be Allowed To Enter Tennessee As "Deputy Game Wardens."

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana's political dictator, whose magic bounty is providing transportation of practically the entire Louisiana State University cheering section to Nashville, Tenn., for Saturday's football game with Vanderbilt, today put the finishing touches to his unique enterprise.

One of his chief aides, the 4,500 L. S. U. cadets, today received their new gray uniforms which the kingfish ordered rushed from the tailors for Saturday's parade.

Tonight hundreds of cars were being assembled from all over the state and nearby states to make up the five or more trains it will take to carry the Tiger rosters to the game. Railroad officials estimate the total exodus of football fans will number 5,000.

GAME WARDENS.
Ironing out his differences with Tennessee officials over his proposed transportation of armed Louisiana state police into Tennessee with the students, the kingfish received word from the Tennessee game and fish commission that they may enter the state as "deputy game wardens" to guard whatever "wild life you may see fit" to import into Tennessee.

While last-minute preparations were being made for the long trip, the kingfish, who is taking the 125-piece university band and the cadets at his own expense and has "loaned" $7 to each of a thousand or more other students who lacked funds to make the trip, busied himself through the day in an effort to raise more money for those few students left out in his first distribution. The senator said he obtained the money from "contributions."

VIA CHATTANOOGA.
The football trains, in one of which Senator Long will ride with the university's band, will pass through Vicksburg, Miss., Memphis and Chattanooga, Tenn., on the way to the game.

A parade through downtown Nashville led by the kingfish will mark the arrival of the invading Louisianians at 9 a. m. Saturday. In the afternoon, the cadets will parade before the game at the football field.

Huey had nothing to say today regarding the trip, indicating everything was progressing smoothly on the eve of the takeoff.

His sound trucks have been dispatched to Nashville as a vanguard, and this may mean the kingfish has a speech tucked away for the occasion.

TECH, GEORGIA FACE WAVE, TIDE; VANDY VS. L. S. U.

Auburn Battle Kentucky at Lexington; Ole Miss Faces Sewanee.

By Kenneth Gregory, Associated Press Sports Writer.
October's last Saturday afternoon, halfway point in this annual football campaign, presents to Dixie's gridiron enthusiasts the most attractive array of games they will have an opportunity to witness during the season.

Other week-end offers several outstanding conflicts, but taken as a whole the entertainment on the slate for tomorrow is of superior quality, and when the firing ceases there may be much jumbling of the standings in the south's big circuit—the Southeastern conference.

The all-star show calls for five acts featuring Southeastern football. Headlined by the Louisiana State-Vanderbilt meet at Nashville, and the Alabama-Georgia contest at Birmingham, Tulane and Georgia Tech stage their annual New Orleans.

These three battles stand out above the rest of the card because the leadership of the conference is involved. At present, Alabama, Tulane and Vanderbilt are in a three-way tie for the top of the ladder, with three victories and no defeats, while Louisiana State ranks fourth with one triumph.

The Baton Rouge Tigers are slight favorites over the Commodores, who have been sluggish in their last two games and have been unable to perfect a defense to stop L. S. U. plays. Louisiana, however, has been impressive in every game but one, and is especially good in whipping Arkansas last week.

Alabama's mighty Crimson Tide, surging along in a manner that recalls its triumphant march to the title last year, holds an edge over Georgia, but there are some who concede the improved Bulldogs a chance to upset the Tuscaloosa eleven. Georgia Tech's battered crew, crippled by numerous injuries, holds little hope of worrying the Green Wave.

Auburn's invasion of Lexington for a tussle with Kentucky and the Mississippi-Sewanee duel at Oxford round out the conference program. It is the first Southeastern appearance for the Wildcats and the fourth for the Plainsmen, who have dropped their three previous encounters.

AGGIES VS. CHOCTAWS.
Mississippi State engages the Starkville College Choctaws at Starkville tonight, in one of several contests scheduled for Friday. Three Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association games find Transylvania and Morehead clashing at Lexington, Ky.; Millsaps playing Mississippi Teachers at Hattiesburg; and Louisiana Tech engaging Louisiana Normal at Natchitoches in a night game. Other combats on the card for Friday include: Loyola-Spring Hill at New Orleans; Wake Forest-Georgia Washington at Washington (night); and Union U. West Tennessee at Jackson, Tenn.

Saturday's schedule calls for an important intercollegiate conflict between Centenary and Texas Christian at Shreveport in addition to three S. I. A. U. duels between Furman and Centre at Greenville, S. C.; Stetson-Mercer at Jacksonville, and Middle Tennessee-West Kentucky at Murfreesboro, and a Dixie conference tussle at Chattanooga between Southwestern (Tennessee) and Chattanooga.

Other games include: Murray-Birmingham-Southern at Murray, Ky.; Louisiana College-Mexico at Mexico City; Newberry-Langley Field at Langley Field, Va.; Citadel-Davidson at Charleston, S. C.; Tech-Hiwa at Cookeville; Rennie-Jacksonville and Mary at Williamsburg, Va.; Oglethorpe-Howard at Atlanta; Presbyterian-Catawba at Clinton; Richmond-Hampden-Sydney at Richmond; Georgetown (Kentucky)-Cincinnati at Cincinnati; and Hanover-Louisville at Hanover, Ind.

Memphis Tigers Lead Pro League
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Memphis Tigers monopolized the leadership in the departments of offense and defense in the first three weeks' play of the American football league.

Coch E. F. Peters, of the Memphis eleven, captured first place honors in punting and passing, and his teammate, Mike Massad, booted two field goals in two attempts to lead that column, league statistics released here today show.

Bob Herrington, the Tigers' midline quarterback, was in a tie with Dick Shinn, of the Dallas Rams, for second place among the ground gainers. Joe Grosvenor, of St. Louis, reeling off 266 yards in two games, went ahead of Herrington and Shinn, who gained a total of 181 yards each in three games.

Billiard Wizard In Last Appearance
R. R. Atkins, the Gainesville, Ga., billiard wizard who holds the world record for the maximum number of balls pocketed on one shot, will make his last appearance here at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the New Deal Billiard parlor.

The feature of the program will be the famous 20-ball shot. The public is invited to attend.

Quitman High Wins Third Straight, 19-14
QUITMAN, Ga., Oct. 25.—Quitman High school defeated Pelham High this afternoon, 19 to 14, making the third straight victory for Quitman for the season.

Ruth Reported As Successor To Connie Mack

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The New York Daily News says Babe Ruth is slated to become manager of the Philadelphia Athletics next season and that Connie Mack, veteran pilot who will be 72 years old in December, will retire.

Mack's retirement, the paper says, will be announced when he returns in January from an exhibition tour to the Orient with a group of major league players, of which Ruth is manager. Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, will not stand in Ruth's way of accepting the new post. By the time Mack has accepted, Ruth will learn Mack's system of diamond strategy and will be prepared to take over the managerial reins.

Just what terms were offered the Babe is uncertain, the News says. "But it was indicated that in addition to a salary comparable to the one the Babe would have accepted had he renewed his contract with the Yankees, Ruth will be given a small block of Athletic stock."

Edward C. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, said there was "nothing to" the published report that Babe Ruth has been offered the managership of the Philadelphia Athletics.

JOHNSTON SEEKS A FOE FOR BAER

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—James J. Johnston, the sage of Madison Square Garden, peered long and earnestly into his crystal bowl today, but came up with a blank.

"There isn't a first-class young heavyweight prospect in the country," he announced. "No, sir; I wouldn't give a quarter for any of them."

A far-sighted individual, Johnston is trying to spot an up and coming youngster who might step into the picture when the present crop of first flight heavies fades out. But he comes right out and tells you he sees nothing encouraging, much less exciting.

"I may not be a prophet," he says, "but I am willing to predict that Max Baer will be a long, long time." Of the long list of hopefuls now pounding the canebreakers or fighting preliminaries, Johnston can name only two in whom he sees any promise at all.

One is young Eddie Hogan, of Waterbury, Conn., and the other is Buddy Baer, the husky younger brother of Max. Johnston has been in the office of the Garden match-maker. "He is fast and he can sock. He needs lots of experience and lots of tough fights. He isn't getting them because he is trying to hold on to his own spots. He wants to come down here and say who he'll fight. The result is, young Hogan isn't fighting. Even he, who has been matched up twice a month, he's at least three years away."

"Buddy Baer likes to fight. He has the build and he's willing. They tell me he is smart, too. But like Hogan, he's a long way off. He may get there and he may not. That will depend a lot on the way he takes care of himself and the way he is handled."

"That's the crop, as I see it. The others—they are just preliminary boys."

MAROONS FACE MORRIS BROWN

Advance ticket sale for the Morris Brown and Morehouse College homecoming game has reached a high peak for Saturday night at Ponce de Leon park which is scheduled at 2 o'clock.

Unusual interest is centered around the fact that several hundred white friends of the two schools have bought blocks of tickets and are still buying the tickets through the business office of two schools where tickets went on sale late Wednesday afternoon. The ticket box at the park will open several days before the usual time to accommodate late purchasers.

Both squads will be sent through their tapering off exercises this afternoon. At Morehouse, Coach "Luk" Williams, Ellis, has been put in the Maroon Tigers. Thursday afternoon the squad was put through a hard tackling practice and every man on the squad saw plenty of action. The blocking of the entire team was greatly improved.

Tech Supporters Accompany Team
Aroused by the fact that they've got to "stick in there and fight" with their team, a large number of Georgia Tech alumni are planning to go along to New Orleans this week-end to witness the Tech-Tulane game Saturday.

A special sleeper, leaving Atlanta Friday night over the West Point route and arriving in New Orleans at 8:05 Saturday morning, has been arranged. The special round-trip railroad fare is $19.50. A lower berth will be $3.75 each way.

Pullman reservation can be made by phoning Lloyd Nelson, passenger agent, at Walnut 1722. The St. Charles Hotel has been designated by the Tech Alumni Association as headquarters for the Tech team and supporters. N. B. Williams, Ansley hotel manager, will make hotel arrangements for the Tech group.

SMITH IS STAR AS BOYS' HIGH BEATS LANIER

Passes Pave Way for 12-7 Victory Before 7,000.

By Roy White.
Playing his first game of the season, following an injury before the season opened, J. Carlisle Smith Jr., led Boys' High to a spectacular 12-to-7 victory over Lanier High of Macon, Thursday night at Ponce de Leon park. It was by far the best prep game of the season and was witnessed by more than 7,000 spectators.

Lanier's touchdown came early in the game on a 77-yard drive. It was the Poets' only sustained march of the game, but got results.

RECOVER FUMBLE.
The Poets recovered a Boys' High fumble on the 23-yard line. Two line plays netted 7 yards and Lott passed 17 yards to Barbre. Another pass, Lott to Brooks, netted 18 yards and after two first downs on short yardage, Lumpkin rumbled the Purple line for 5 yards and a touchdown. Barbre kicked the point from placement.

When Smith entered the game early in the second quarter, the Boys' High offensive took on new life. A pass attempt was blocked and Boys' High recovered the ball for its first important showing. Eddie Casey's young men have been doing quite well, but Dartmouth should win.

FOOLS POETS.
Smith's pass was wild and he fooled Lanier and made 12 yards on an end run. He then passed 20 yards to Gerakitis for a first down. Smith went 9 more through the line. A pass was batted down and Brande made it a first down on Lanier's 12-yard line. Smith then faked a pass and broke off tackle, behind some fine interference, for the touchdown. The point try was low and Boys' High was trailing Lanier, 7 to 6, at the half.

Early in the third period, Smith intercepted a Lanier pass and ran several yards before being downed on the high 49-yard line. A pass failed and Jim Brande went off right tackle for 20 yards. He came back with another 20 over left tackle and placed the ball on Lanier's 11-yard line. Smith, a forward pass, then threw a backward pass to Mims, who then passed 11 yards to Atkinson for the winning touchdown.

GOOD PASSERS.
Lanier's best offensive weapon was their deadly forward passing game. The Poets, with first Lott, then Lumpkin, tossing the ball to Brooks, Barbre and Smith, kept the crowd standing a majority of the second half, but when near the Purple's goal, the attack was stymied.

Lumpkin, the state's outstanding center last year, played a swell game at fullback and was given some fine aid by Lott and Brooks. Barbre, a brother of one of Tech's players, and Smith were outstanding for the Poets. And Boys' High had to resort to the air game to get past the Poets' flankers with any consistency.

There was little difference in the ground gained as Boys' High chalked up 13 first downs and Lanier 12, but those of Boys' High were knitted closer together when the touchdown drive was in progress.

In addition to Smith, Atkinson, Brande and Sims, in the backfield, Captain Jones, Brooks and Thrash in the line were outstanding for Boys' High.

Lanier presented one of the best coached teams that has appeared here last year. Selby Buck has done a fine job and was forced to send his All-Southern center to the fullback post.

BOYS' HIGH GOOD.
Boys' High also has shown a decided improvement in its play, particularly the backfield, where an offensive is working better than in previous years. Coach Shorty Doyal and Smith have been working with the line and Dickie Butler has been instructing the backfield. The net result is seven straight victories for the Purple.

TOMORROW'S ROUNDUP.
YALE-ARMY—One of the closest contests of the day—full of fire and action. Army, untested to date, is still a guess. Yale has been moving steadily forward. Both have class on the attacking side, with Army's defense slightly favored. So Army gets the call.

FORDHAM-SOUTHERN METHODIST—Another hard, fairly even game where Fordham's somewhat battered line may be the vulnerable spot. The Texans can call on a baffling passing game and this should turn the tide for S. M. U. in the wake of St. Mary's hurricane.

TENNESSEE-DUKE—Wallace Wade's unbeaten Duke team is moving to the border line of trouble. Tennessee feel about Alabama, but so would most other teams that met Alabama. Tennessee's strong defense and skill stronger attack, with Vaughn passing, should turn Duke back.

HARVARD-DARTMOUTH—Dartmouth, like the Army, emerges from the fog for its first important showing. Eddie Casey's young men have been doing quite well, but Dartmouth should win.

MINNESOTA-IOWA—The week-

ing Iowa took from Iowa State a week ago should jar the former from its truce. But the jar wasn't heavy enough to roll back Minnesota's bounding Gophers. Minnesota has the call, with something to spare.

HOLY CROSS COLLEGE—College has a fine little team and Holy Cross a good big team. This margin of Holy Cross power, plus Holy's passing, should carry the day.

PRINCETON-CORNELL—The Tiger should swing back to his stride this week after the W. & L. nightmare. Cornell's material has been low par. Princeton has a decisive margin.

SYRACUSE-BROWN—Brown should be much better than she was against Yale, but Syracuse has a strong team this season, and so gets the winning vote.

TEXAS-RICE—One of the hardest games of the day to pick. Rice beat Purdue and S. M. U., and remains unbeaten. Texas lost a week ago to Centenary. The edge is thin, but, on the whole, it belongs to Rice.

STANFORD-SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA—One of the annual classics.

Southern California is well below par, but Stanford's scoring attack has been none too robust up to date. Stanford, however, has a clear superiority in both line and backfield and therefore should crash safely through.

NOTRE DAME-WISCONSIN—The South Bend entry is still picking up week by week, and Notre Dame's backfield has more stuff than Wisconsin can stop.

NAVY-PENNSYLVANIA—Navy's smart, wide-open attack, plus her running speed, will be more than Penn can handle—especially with one of her best backs out of action.

WASHINGTON-CALIFORNIA—One of the hot spots of the western coast. Washington has played better.

U. S. URGED TO BUY 15,000 ENGINES

Aviation Witness Sub-suggests Subsidizing of Manufacturers, Airports

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Proposals that the government let contracts for the construction of 15,000 airplane engines of approved types as a means of stimulating the aviation industry through mass production and consequent low-priced flying equipment were laid before the federal aviation commission today.

Corliss C. Mosley, president of Aircraft Industries, Inc., of Los Angeles, in an appearance before the commission urged that a technical committee be appointed to investigate the present approved types with a view of determining the types of aircraft motors to be built.

"After a thorough and complete investigation," Mr. Mosley said, "this committee should be instructed to recommend three engines to be placed in production. One engine should be picked out in the class for light aircraft, of say 30 to 50-horsepower. Another should be chosen in the 125 to 175-horsepower class. And a third from the 200 to 300-horsepower class.

"The technical committee choosing these engines should give consideration to the proven dependability of the engine, simplicity and cost of manufacture in production."

10 Per Cent Profit.
Upon completion of the choice of the engines, he said, the government should reimburse the manufacturers for their full engineering expense in developing the motors and in return the government would be given the rights to the engine.

"Next," he added, "the government should proceed to let bids to all engine manufacturers in the United States calling for the production of 5,000 engines of each type or a total of 15,000 engines to be built on a cost not to exceed 10 per cent profit basis."

As rapidly as the engines are completed they would be sold at cost to the commercial industry, any individual or manufacturer who has an airplane or who contemplates manufacturing airplanes, "provided such airplanes have an approved type certificate."

The witness expressed the belief that "if the government takes such a step commercial aviation will be tremendously stimulated," but added that "a similar plan for development of airplanes in quantity is not practicable in view of the rapid yearly development and change in airplane design and construction."

Mr. Mosley concurred in numerous previous recommendations that the present commission, headed by Clark Howell, Atlanta Constitution publisher, report favorably on the establishment of a permanent government aviation commission "to take over all functions of the government relating to civil aviation."

Would Subsidize Ports.
In addition he suggested that the government work out a system of subsidizing flying clubs, similar to that in operation in England; that regulations pertaining to airplane engines or manufacturing operations and the licensing of pilots be made less rigid; that the government create a triangulation system of radio on airways in the interest of safety; and that the government pay all airport one cent per pound on all air mail originating and departing from the city or community served by the airport.

Airports, he said, are just as essential to the air transportation system of the country as the companies operating air mail and few of them are operating at a profit.

Recommendations for a separate air department combining air activities of the war and navy were presented to the committee by Richard T. Aldworth, former lieutenant in the army air corps and now manager of the Newark airport.

Physician Discovers Babies Don't Have Colic

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Babies don't have colic any more. This trouble, which all the present adult world survived, "is fast disappearing as a clinical entity," The New York Academy of Medicine graduate fortnight was informed tonight by Rustin McIntosh, M. D.

The familiar symptoms of a small infant drawing up its knees and exhibiting a tight stomach, he said, are not the signs of colic as once supposed, but a "normal reflex."

The wise modern physician doesn't look for "colic" when he sees these signs. But hunger first, spilling second and then disease, "represents the development of a conditioned reflex, and I have seen it fully developed in an infant as young as two weeks of age. The infant memorizes a sequence of events; he cries and immediately afterwards receives some treatment he enjoys."

"One suspects this cause of excessive crying when the sources of solitude are numerous, and include a grandmother or two."

rank with the secretaries of war and navy," said Mr. Aldworth.

In the event the commission is not prepared to go this far, he recommended as a secondary proposal the creation of an air corps "whose every phase of activity, training, policies, procurement and operations are directed by competent air personnel with a separate air corps promotion list."

At the same time Mr. Aldworth stressed the need for the creation of a permanent aviation commission to "control every phase of civil aviation, including research, development, subsidy, rates, airways, the bureau of air commerce of the department of commerce, etc., to supervise and regulate civil aviation."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—A total of $51,016,815 has been paid, the farm administration announced today, to cotton producers who accepted options on government-owned cotton as part payment for participating in the government's 1933 cotton adjustment program.

The total represented payments through September 30 and was paid producers under two methods of exercising the options, with $12,074,070 going to farmers who selected the direct sale method, and $38,942,745 to producers who exercised their options by participating in the cotton producers' pool.

Payment to producers in various states were made under the two methods as follows:

Payments on account of exercise of options by sale of cotton—Alabama, $637,003; Arkansas, $588,282; Florida, $17,307; Georgia, $1,019,607; Louisiana, $364,706; Mississippi, $676,035; Missouri, $93,939; North Carolina, $943,312; Oklahoma, $2,237,279; South Carolina, $698,297; Tennessee, $192,141; Texas, $4,326,149; and Virginia, $54,988.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

Here Is An Extremely Fine Treat For Your Complexion

By MIGNON.

These days when you are getting your Christmas complexion ready for a gay holiday season, when it must be good to show off your evening clothes properly, here is a fine suggestion. I've tried it thoroughly and it does something for your skin that I don't attempt to explain. Of course a great many of the improvements brought about by cosmetics are the result of the care you are giving your face rather than any one product. Provided what you use is good and pure and not drying for a thin dry skin and not too oily for an oily one. The products are many but the rules are limited.

I am not going to tell you what I cream to use in this treatment unless you ask me. You can use the one I used or another good one you happen to have in the house, preferably one I have told you about before. Give yourself a good thick "nourishing" cream and then when you have wiped that off with tissues get yourself a bottle of this tonic I'm going to recommend. It is mild and intended for a sensitive skin.

Have a small bowl (glass or china) in your toilet, so that it will be cold. Put one lump of ice in it and pour about three tablespoons of the tonic over the ice.

Have a roll of cotton handy. You know, the kind that comes in flat layers and rolled especially for dressing table or surgical use. Cut strips the width of your face—two of them will do, as it isn't narrow. In one cut a hole for the nostrils so that you may breathe. Lay the cotton in the cold tonic and lay it (just wet enough so that it won't run) on your face. Lie quiet for 15 minutes and when you get up you will think you have visited the fountain of youth. Go to sleep if you can and make it a half hour instead of 15 minutes. It will be well worth while.

The manufacturer who produced this also makes a grand cream that you may use with this if you wish. A bit high, but it lasts a very long time, so it is worth the money. I can tell you a much less expensive cream to use with it if you want me to, but do try the tonic. It's not an astrigent and won't draw your face. It's what it claims to be—mild.

Jersey To Charge Baby Slain in Crib

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 25.—(AP)—The web of evidence encircling Bruno Richard Hauptmann tightened today with the disclosure that Dr. John E. Condon, the celebrated "Jafis" of the Lindbergh kidnapping case, had positively identified the German carpenter as the man to whom he paid the $20,000 ransom.

Another startling development followed this by a few hours, an authoritative source revealing that the state of New Jersey might contend in the trial of the one-time machine gunner that baby Lindbergh was brutally slain in his crib the memorable night of March 1, 1932.

The state, it was learned, will contend that the infant's body then was carried down the ladder by which the kidnaper gained access to the second-story nursery of the Lindbergh home at Hopewell and buried in a shallow grave two miles away.

Federal Jury Probes Finances of Walker

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The extended investigation of the personal finances of the city's former "playboy" mayor, Jimmie Walker, was resumed today when Daniel C. Mulholland, former president of the Federal National Bank of Boston, was called before the federal grand jury.

Frank W. H. Adams, first assistant United States attorney, who questioned Mulholland, indicated several more sessions will be held before the jury reaches its conclusion on Walker's income taxes. Another hearing will be held tomorrow, and there are many more witnesses to be heard, he said.

Income tax evasion is not an extraditable offense, Walker and his second wife, Betty Compton, a former actress, have been in Europe since early in 1933. He is out of the jurisdiction of the federal courts. At the same time, it was pointed out that the statute of limitations

CITY TO TAKE OVER BIG RELIEF BURDEN

Full Care of 15,000 Unemployables Must Be Assumed January 1.

The city of Atlanta will assume the responsibility of caring for 15,000 unemployables January 1, and the federal government will continue to aid the able-bodied unemployed, it was decided Thursday at a conference attended by Mayor James L. Key, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state FERA administrator, and city officials.

Relief for the 5,000 families classed as unemployables will cost the city more than the $40,000 which Atlanta now pays the government for taking care of the unemployables and the unemployed, Mayor Key said.

Miss Shepperson asserted that the state of Georgia should appropriate a fund for relief, and she suggested a fund for relief, and she suggested a set-up whereby all communities would form welfare committees to aid in distributing relief among the state's needs.

Legislative Action To Be Asked.
In all probability, the next session of the legislature, which convenes in January, will be asked to make a relief appropriation. The state so far has not contributed anything toward caring for the unemployed.

Miss Shepperson and Mayor Key met Thursday at the request of the mayor, who asked that the government's attitude toward relief in the city be revealed at this time so preparations to care for the unemployables could be started at once by the city. Thus far, the FERA and the other relief organizations of the government have taken care of all the needy, the city and the county paying monthly sums for that service.

"If the unemployables are cared for in the same manner as the FERA has done for them, it will cost the city much more than $40,000 a month," the mayor observed. The monthly amount has heretofore been raised by extending the time for the maturing of certain bonds, and the method may be followed next year for 1935 relief, B. Graham West, city comptroller, said. Another possibility is that the legislature will be asked to revise Atlanta's charter so that money can be raised in some other way.

Tentative Plan Outlined.
Miss Shepperson outlined a tentative plan whereby a welfare committee to serve Atlanta, Fulton and DeKalb counties would be set up—a committee apart from any politics, she added.

Pooling the resources of the three governments would ease the problem of relief, she thought.

Mayor Key said Thursday he is not ready to reveal the exact methods the city will use in giving relief to the unemployables.

Comptroller West, Councilman Aubrey Milam, Alderman I. Glen Hailley, and Frank Neely accompanied the mayor on his visit to Miss Shepperson.

Young Atlantans 'Takens for Ride,' Robbed by Two Armed Bandits

Two white, armed and well-dressed ride-and-rob bandits Thursday night took a young lady and her escort for a ride, put them out of their automobile at Grant park after relieving them of $27 and the automobile which belonged to an Atlanta automobile dealer and then gave them sufficient change to make their way back to their homes.

Delmas Vines, 22, of 908 St. Charles avenue, N. E., told police that he intended to buy a new automobile and Thursday night called in the demonstrator which the local agency had provided him for Miss Ethel Ozment, 24, of 310 North avenue, N. E. They went for a ride and when they returned to Miss Ozment's home, the two bandits put the guns in their faces and made them get into the back seat of the automobile. The bandits got in the front seat and drove the automobile to Grant park, where, according to Vines, they took $25 from him and $22 from Miss Ozment. When they complained to the bandits that they didn't have any money on which to ride back to Atlanta, Vines said one of the bandits threw a handful of change at them.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sore and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down and out feeling is in your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and out." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, among which is come to making the bile flow freely. But don't take liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. 25c at drug stores. 150c 12 C. M. Co.

Atlanta Woman's Club Exposition To Be Next Month

At this season of the year Atlanta merchants and their patrons look forward with interest to the mammoth exposition, an annual event taking place at the Atlanta Woman's Club. The exposition, taking the place of the well-known and popular bazaar which has been held at the club for many years, will be held on November 6, 7 and 8.

Mrs. John F. MacDougald is general chairman in charge of arrangements and announces that many concessions have been reserved, as some of Atlanta's leading merchants have pledged to affiliate with the club in this undertaking. As the exposition is always patronized by hundreds of visitors, an excellent opportunity for displaying merchandise is offered.

The exposition features a complete and diversified display of merchandise and produce of varieties and the gayly decorated booths contain exhibits of every description. Edibles, wearing apparel, electrical appliances, exquisite silver and china and glass are only a few of the countless articles on exhibition. One grand prize and innumerable smaller prizes are given away each day, and added features which add to the enjoyment of this occasion are the delicious luncheons which are served at a nominal charge each day, and the splendid musical and dance programs which are presented by leading Atlanta artists each afternoon and evening at 3 and 7 o'clock.

The three-day exposition will be known as Patriotic, Federation and Garden Day, respectively, and on each of these days organized groups are expected to attend, and an excellent opportunity for meeting friends is assured. Mrs. MacDougald, general chairman, and Mrs. Max E. Land, president, are being assisted by the co-chairmen, Mesdames Earl Scott, James A. Greene and H. C. Miner, the central committee, which includes active past presidents, officers of the club and chairmen of committees.

Mrs. W. F. Melton is chairman of programs and will be assisted by her co-chairman, Mrs. W. M. Smaw, Mesdames Earl F. Scott and L. U. Ham-mack are chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of luncheons, Mesdames H. G. Carnes and Olive Oldknow are chairman and co-chairman of special prizes, and Mrs. R. P. Sweeney is chairman of general prizes. Mesdames George Berry and Harry Malone will act as chairmen of the cake and candy sale.

Miss Jean Rexford Weds Mr. Sanders In Nashville, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(AP) The marriage of Miss Eleanor Jean Rexford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rexford, of Atlanta, and Brandon I. Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sanders, of Atlanta, was solemnized here tonight at 6 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends in the study of the First Presbyterian church by the pastor, Dr. James I. Vance.

Mrs. Sanders, who was accompanied to Nashville by her mother, was a former resident of Schenectady, N. Y., moving to Atlanta several years ago with her parents.

Mr. Sanders, Associated Press photographer, has headquarters in Atlanta, came to Nashville a week ago on business. He and his bride will remain here for several days as guests at the Andrew Jackson hotel.

Mrs. Rexford wore a model of blue and yellow silk, with a matching blue turban.

FARM ECONOMY PLAN WINS FAVOR ABROAD

Italy Meanwhile Approves Profit-Sharing System in Agriculture.

ROME, Oct. 25.—(AP)—It appeared certain tonight that the American proposal for a world-planned economy in agriculture would be overwhelmingly approved in a vote of delegates tomorrow morning.

Members of the International Institute of Agriculture voiced unanimous approval when Dr. Henry Charles Taylor, permanent delegate from the United States, outlined his plan today.

Dr. Taylor asked the delegates to change the direction of the institute in order to provide the interested governments with all information necessary to enable them to carry out the work of planning.

Rexford Twigg, United States assistant secretary of agriculture, was a delegate.

A revolutionary profit-sharing system for Italian agriculture, embracing land owners and farm workers, was approved today.

The plan, to go into effect immediately in some provinces, was to be applied on a nation-wide basis as soon as the necessary organizations can be developed.

The new system contemplates: 1. A distribution of farm profits and produce on a percentage basis. 2. Employment of more farm workers. 3. Equal distribution of work. 4. Elimination of overtime work. 5. Of farm labor by women and children.

Provisions were worked out to move unemployed farm workers from regions oversupplied with labor to sparsely settled districts.

Owners of farms, it was explained, will not lose their status of proprietors under the profit-sharing system. Owners were to be assigned a percentage of profits corresponding to as nearly as possible to their earnings under the present system.

An official interpretation of the plan, issued tonight, said it "places capital and labor on an equal basis."

ATLANTA MILK MEN, U. S. OFFICIALS CONFER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Producers and distributors of the Atlanta, Ga., milk shed conferred with farm administration officials today on details of a marketing agreement now being drafted for their area.

Administration spokesmen expressed optimism the distribution control machinery of the agricultural adjustment act will become effective in the Atlanta market, where the producer-distributor problem has defeated previous efforts to arrive at a satisfactory pact.

Since Atlanta last sought an agreement, Georgia has been divided for control into several milk sheds centering about the various cities of the state, and separate pacts drafted for each.

The administration hopes through regulating the distribution to raise the returns to producers and at the same time make possible a satisfactory earning for the distributors. It was indicated price flexibility finally might be found to adjust the producer-distributor problem.

Atlanta here for the conferences were A. L. Crowe, Glen Holcomb, B. R. George, W. F. Leverett, H. H. Brien, M. J. Morhouse and Frank Buchanan.

THE LAUGHING GIRL MYSTERY

By Viola Paradise

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Sheridan Dinnard, chief aid to Dr. Coe, an Egyptologist who has a private museum in New York, is hurrying up the stairs to the studio apartment of Adelaide Sayre, his fiancée, when he hears a shrill burst of laughter cut off short. He remarks to Oswald, the colored janitor, that the girl must be a blond with lavender eyes and a short upper lip. Later, when he is connected with the museum, that it is easy for an archaeologist to reconstruct a girl from her laugh. A girl answering this description is found from a slab found in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Coggs, who are at their country place. An Egyptian statuette, taken from Dinnard's desk, had been used as a door knocker to hide a newly discovered whole in the Coggses' home to Inspector Higgins when he arrested Dinnard. But Assistant District Attorney Alby holds him back. Alby is questioning witnesses, among them Sam and Sarah Tidwell, unemployed theatrical people, who practically accuse Dinnard of being the murderer. Alby has Randall, a famous dancing test, now GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

"The white one, that's what I saw sticking out," said Joey. "I knew it was a lady's trunk."

Alby shook out the dresses and replaced them. Then he stepped back, towards the door. From the door one could not see the tray of hats on the floor beyond. Alby returned, and started to lift the tray of dresses, but quickly drew his hand back, as if he had hurt it. "Dinnard," he said, "would you please lift the tray out?"

Automatically Sheridan obeyed, and then wheeled about to see Alby standing in the doorway studying him. "That will do," he said. "Now, Joey, do you think you can imitate the way Dennis Swift did that same job when you intruded last night?"

"I don't know. But it didn't look like that," said Joey. "Besides, Dennis Swift had the letters in his hand. Here, I'll do it with this," and Joey picked up a Gideon Bible. "Wait a minute. Got a pencil?" He drew a long scar on the cushion of his left thumb. "Like Dennis Swift and Mr. Dinnard," he explained. "Now clap your hand when you're ready." And he opened the trunk and bent over. At Alby's handclap, he dropped the lid, straightened up, wheeled about, and, in a voice startlingly like Sheridan's, "Oh, you!" Then he walked to the door, put out his hands as if he were about to take a tray, looked down at the Bible, tossed it to the bed, pushed back an imaginary overcoat to reach his right hand in his pocket, took out a dime, transferred it to his left hand, and turned the hand palm up so that the scar showed plainly. He waited a moment and then went through the motions of taking a tray.

Joey had performed the pantomime with spirit, until he came to the point of transferring the dime from right hand to left. He paused there, and finished, rather slowly.

"Was he as slow as that at the last?" asked Alby.

"No," Joey scowled, puzzled. "But I just now noticed something Dennis Swift did last night. I mean, I must have seen it last night if it didn't sink in, see? Dennis Swift shut the trunk with his right hand. And it was his right hand he put in his pocket for the dime. Well, that's O. K. But why did he switch that dime to his left hand, when he could just as well hand it to me with his right? Why, don't you see, Mr. Alby, it was the same sort of a trick as when he gave the address to the taxi man so loud-like he meant the scar to be noticed. And if it had a been Mr. Dinnard here, which of course it could not on account of the height, he sure wouldn't have shown that scar."

"Oh, Joey!" There was gratitude and affection in Adelaide's voice.

Alby proceeded with his examination of the trunk. Under the tray of ballet costumes it contained ordinary clothing. Three summer dresses of cotton; an old tweed suit; two blouses; several pairs of shoes—street shoes, overshoes, and ballet slippers to match the ballet dresses. And, at the bottom, several boxes. These last Alby lifted out carefully, taking hold at the corners, to avoid spoiling any fingerprints. "Powder these," he said to Garson, who spread the fingerprint powder on the first box. It went on evenly. "Not a chance!" he crumbled. "It's been wiped off."

So too with the other boxes. As Garson finished with each, Alby opened it. The first contained bottles and other clean costume jewelry. Another contained two small pretty perfume bottles, a tiny toy silver silver-plated spoon, some shoe buckles, odd bits of ribbon. The third was filled with photographs, mostly of girls in ballet costumes, girls about the age of Daisy Satterly. Several of these were cheaply framed.

Alby removed the frames, and looked at the backs of the pictures. Suddenly his face lighted up. He handed Harrod one photograph—a girl in street clothes, though two pictures of her in ballet costumes were among the collection.

Harrod turned the photograph over and whistled, as he read to himself: "Through you, a red owner of late, dear Daisy, I can't believe you will let your supposition of your coming good luck spoil our long, long friendship. Anyhow, take my picture along on that journey, you're so mysterious about. Love, Gertrude."

Alby picked up the last and largest box. This, too, contained photographs, dozens of photographs, and every one a picture of the murdered girl. Some were six or eight years old, judging from the styles. Most of them, however, were in ballet costume. Across the corner of several of these a date and the words, "Yours sincerely, Daisy Satterly," were splashed in large handwriting.

At the bottom of the box was a large envelope, containing still more photographs of the same girl—new ones. And across their corners the same splashy hand had inscribed another name: Diantha Sheridan.

Alby studied it in silence. Then he showed it to Harrod, and handed it to Sherry. The others crowded close, trying to look over Sherry's shoulder. Joey asked:

"What do you make of it, Dinnard?" Alby asked.

Sherry, studying the picture, did not answer immediately. But Joey spoke up.

"Not so good," said Joey. "She's pretty—anybody can see that—but she's got the big head—conceited."

"Poor girl!" Adelaide said gently. "She didn't look like a conceited person last night, did she?"

"Last night! Gee!" Joey's voice dropped almost to a whisper. "Is that—that the girl—that died laughing?"

Alby nodded.

Sheridan said, "May I see the picture?"

Alby handed it to Sheridan.

"What do you make of it, Dinnard?" Alby asked.

Sherry, studying the picture, did not answer immediately. But Joey spoke up.

"Not so good," said Joey. "She's pretty—anybody can see that—but she's got the big head—conceited."

"Poor girl!" Adelaide said gently. "She didn't look like a conceited person last night, did she?"

"Last night! Gee!" Joey's voice dropped almost to a whisper. "Is that—that the girl—that died laughing?"

Alby nodded.

Sheridan said, "May I see the picture?"

Alby handed it to Sheridan.

AUNT HET

At the bottom of the box was a large envelope, containing still more photographs of the same girl—new ones. And across their corners the same splashy hand had inscribed another name: Diantha Sheridan.

Alby studied it in silence. Then he showed it to Harrod, and handed it to Sherry. The others crowded close, trying to look over Sherry's shoulder. Joey asked:

"What do you make of it, Dinnard?" Alby asked.

Sherry, studying the picture, did not answer immediately. But Joey spoke up.

"Not so good," said Joey. "She's pretty—anybody can see that—but she's got the big head—conceited."

FOOD FOR THE WORLD.

V-Fruit.

The New World, as we have seen, gave the potato (and to Europe), and now there are several times as many potatoes grown in Europe as on our side of the Atlantic.

The steady day-by-day eating of oranges, or drinking of orange juice,

has been found to help save teeth from decay. In general we must give fruits a high place in the field of health. If we did not eat them, there would be more sickness.

The pomegranate grows wild on bushlike trees of southern Asia, and is favored by people of Indian and Persia. It is about the size of an orange, but the skin has a golden-red color. I like the taste of this fruit, but the juicy pulp is bundled around hundreds of seeds, and it takes a long while to make headway in eating it.

A pleasant drink can be made with pomegranate juice, and this is the best way to use the fruit. California, Utah and Nevada grow crops of pomegranates, the tree stock having been brought in from abroad.

By FREDERICK GARDNER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The

stock market retreated sharply today after efforts to extend a rally had encountered early resistance in early trading.

Realities in the way of lower

prices for major corporations and profit-

taking in rail shares following their

sharp advance in the preceding session

after better feeling generated by President Roosevelt's address to the American Bankers' Association.

Weakness cropped out early in Consolidated Gas on a dividend omission by one of its subsidiaries.

New York Steam Corporation, it spread later to most sections of the list. Rails yielded the greater part of their rally.

Volume Expanded.

With trading brisk around the opening, as well as on the heels of late dealings, turnover expanded to 1,028,070 shares, the largest in two weeks, compared with 772,000 yesterday. The Standard Statistics Compensation average for 90 selected stocks dropped 1.7 points to 70.9, more than eliminating the gain on the previous upturn.

Except for firmness in the dollar against foreign exchanges and in high-grade corporation bonds, the resulted became general. United States government bonds eased off. Wheat dropped 1.5-2 cents a bushel and cotton lost 45 to 55 cents a bale.

Enthusiasm for rails cooled overnight after further consideration was given to the federal court decision

holding the railway pension bill unconstitutional. Santa Fe yielded 3 1/2 points and Union Pacific 4 1/4. Losses of 1 to about 3 points were recorded for Atlantic

Coast Line, New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, Pennsylvania and Northern Pacific, despite expressions of rail men hailing the decision as a welcome relief.

Prominent Losers.

Among prominent industrial, United States Steel, Westinghouse, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler

Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck,

Union Carbide and Allied Chemical finished about 1 to 2 points lower.

The General Motors quarterly report, also published after the close of the market, revealed net earnings

equivalent to 48 cents a share, against

71 cents in the September quarter,

President Roosevelt's address and other developments at the bankers' convention overruled the favorable

HOME LOAN ISSUE

IS OVERSUBSCRIBED

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The

banking syndicate handling the new issue of $50,000,000 Home Owners'

Loan Corporation $3 announced today that the issue had been sold and the books closed. There was a substantial number of orders unfilled when the books closed, the syndicate announced.

COTTON OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE anticipate no change of importance on the basis of present known factors and consequently regard the recession Thursday as having a

modities.

COURTS & CO.—After the present selling is completed we may see a forward movement.

BEER & CO.—Thursday's weakness was as disappointing a development as Wednesday's rise was encouraging. We would expect neither as conclusive evidence of the market's near-term possibility of a sharp advance.

DORR & CO.—While Thursday's session was unimportant, it was a day of real fundamental change and the market must be considered as continuing in its recessionary phase.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—We continue to feel that the market is not likely to get very far on the advance, but we are confident that the other hand we are confident that

limits.

Labor Body To Hear Dyers' Strike Case

PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Leaving behind them a silk and rayon dying industry, virtually paralyzed by the day-old strike of 30,000 workers, representatives of employers and employees left for Washington tonight to confer tomorrow with the national textile labor relations board in the hope of bringing the strike to a speedy conclusion.

Within an hour after the mills opened today the strikers had forced the shutdown of most of the plants. The others worked with skeleton crews, and tomorrow picket lines will form outside these plants, determined to make the walkout complete.

The invitation to Washington to confer on a settlement of the strike—the first major walkout since President Roosevelt made his recent plea for industrial peace—was extended by Benjamin Squiers, executive director of the national textile labor relations board. Both sides accepted immediately, held meetings of their own and appointed delegates to go to the nation's capital.

More than 7,500 strikers paraded through Paterson streets this afternoon, marching to the municipal stadium, where a rally was held.

Ashley's Divorce Suit May Be Undefended

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Definite indication that the divorce suit of Lord Ashley, naming Douglas Fairbanks Sr. as co-respondent, will not be defended was given today. It was announced the case is fourth on the list of special jury cases to open November 28.

The Ashley case probably will be heard around December 1. The defense, it was said, definitely has been "abandoned."

As a result, the trial will probably last 10 or 20 minutes, during which Lord Ashley's lawyer, Sir Patrick Hastings, will offer the judge as much available evidence as the court decides is required.

In undefended cases, this usually is limited to the production of adultery, or other main charges.

"I can not help thinking that in his (Wilson's) heart," he continues, "he hoped that the mere act of ranging the United States with the infinite resources on the side of the allies would lead to peace before any American blood was shed."
